Tells UN Reds Shot Down Plane Over Neutral Waters

United Nations, N. Y., —The United States asserted today it has scientific proof that Soviet fighter planes deliberately maneuvered a U. S. RB47 off its course and shot it down over international waters.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge denounced the action as "a criminal and reckless act of piracy" which the Soviet Union tried to hide with "reckless talk."

Proposes Inquiry

He did not seek council condemnation of the Soviet union. Instead he submitted a resolution calling on the council to either name an impartial fact-finding mission to investigate the incident, or submit the entire matter to the international court of justice.

In a highly dramatic speech he produced two maps to demonstrate his points.

Lodge said of the Soviet act of shooting down the plane on July 1:

"This astonishing and criminal fact is established beyond doubt by the evidence of our scientific devices." He did not go into details and U. S. sources said the exact nature was withheld because it involved secret information of great interest to the Russians.

He accused the Soviet Union of denying the RB47 crewmen their rights under international law and denounced this as "flagrant disregard for the standards of international conduct."

As Lodge spoke, the chief Soviet delegate, Vasily V. Kuznetsov sat attentively erect, alternately twiddling his thumbs and jotting down notes.

Wives of Fliers Present

In the spectators' gallery, the wives of the RB47 crewmen, their expressions grim, watched tensely as Lodge pointed with his finger to the maps upon which the plane's course was charted.

There were two maps, one of western Europe showing the plane's route from England toward the Barents sea, the other a detail map of Kola peninsula area with a red arrow

Nixon and Rockefeller Set To Enter Floor Battle on 2 Major Disputed Planks

"It is essential our party have a plan pledging more progress in the field of human relations," he declared.

Routine Session

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York also was prepared to battle on the convention floor for his ideas.

Today's forenoon convention session was strictly a routine affair, devoted to welcoming addresses and preliminary organization.

Yet it was an occasion also for getting off some initial shots at the common enemy—the Democrats.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, hooted at the promises he said had been made to everybody in the Democratic platform. To carry them out, he declared, would add 15 to 20 billion dollars.

Platform Group Works All Night

BY NORMAN WALKER

Chicago —P— The Republican platform committee after a sometimes bitter all-night session finally adopted today a civil rights plank containing a mixture of moderate and liberal proposals.

Details of the plank were not announced immediately. The Republican national convention will not receive it formally until Wednesday night, when the full platform comes up for action.

The composite was worked out at a closed-door session that ground on until 6:40 a. m. At one point the committee rejected 52-32 a motion that it adjourn for the night.

The politically touchy civil rights problem was tossed to the full committee after a drafting subcommittee voted 8-7 for a plank more moderate than that urged by New York's Gov. Rockefeller and supported by Vice President Nixon.

Liberal's Views Included The committee tabled the stronger plank but went on to accept some liberal-sponsored amendments to the more moderate version. No details of either original proposal were made public.

Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin said the final product, although based on the moderate proposals, included about half of the liberal-sponsored provisions.

Chairman Charles H. Percy said all votes were by voice.

Mobs Riot in S. Rhodesia

Smash Shops, Beer Halls and Autos In Opposing Whites

Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia —P— African mobs rioting against white rule were reported smashing shops, beer halls and cars in the black townships of Bulawayo today. Shots were heard in one area.

A strike of the African labor force followed up disorders involving several thousand Africans last night, finally put down by police backed by white British troops.

Negro agitators moved into the white suburbs of this commercial and industrial center of 52,000 in an effort to induce African servants to quit their jobs. Many did. Some gasoline service stations usually operated by Negroes were staffed by white men today.

GOP Doubts Nixon Can Win Election

Chicago —Mingle with typical members of the Republican party gathered here for the national party convention and one can discern a deep underlying fear contradicting the appearances of confidence and gaiety.

Vice President Richard Nixon, the inevitable presidential nominee later this week, will be a hard man to elect in November.

Rockefeller Hope

The listener on the edges of the milling hotel lobbies gets the feeling that this apprehension — mostly hidden as it must be among practical politicians — is at the base of the Rockefeller story.

The New York governor has made a heavy impact here, providing what is perhaps the only drama and excitement.

This is not only because of his effective personality, or his rank as the chief Republican state leader of the country.

Nor is it because of his delicate strength. He has come

GOP Governors Favor Contest For 2nd Place

Chicago —P— Seven Republican governors declared today an open contest for the GOP vice presidential nomination would stimulate their party.

At the same time they acknowledged that Vice President Nixon—prospective head of the ticket—could swing the Republican convention to any turning mate he favors.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois acted as spokesman for the governors after a hurriedly called meeting just before the convention opened this morning at Chicago's International amphitheater.

Stratton said the group discussed the party platform and vice presidential procedure.

He predicted the party could rally around its dispute-laden platform.

4 Earth Shocks In Mt. Etna Area

Catania, Sicily —P— Four strong earth shocks sent frightened residents fleeing from their homes this morning in Zafferana Etna, on the east slope of erupting Mt. Etna.

The 6,000 residents of the town had lived in alarm for a week while Europe's tallest volcano rumbled, roared and spouted flames and volcanic ash in its biggest eruption in years.

Gates Chained Shut

J. I. Case Firm Urges Nelson to Restore Order in Racine County

Racine —P— The struck J. I. Case company, its home plant gates chained shut while a throng of more than 1,000 persons gathered outside, appealed to Gov. Gaylord Nelson today to "take such steps as are necessary to restore law and order in Racine county."

A telegram signed by Frank Palermo, vice president in charge of manufacturing for Case, declared that "a complete breakdown in law and order" occurred at the Clausen Works this morning.

Keep Workers Out

"Five hundred to six hundred UAW Local 180 pickets forcefully prevented anyone from entering the plant this morning," Palermo charged, adding, "the only contribution the sheriff made was to direct traffic away from the plant."

Palermo charged that since the strike began March 9, Sheriff Ted Crowe "has made no effort to maintain law and order."

Who chained and locked the main gates still was not known.

J. A. Nelson, Clausen Works manager, said that five non-strikers scaled the fence, entered the plant grounds and volunteered to break the gates open. However, he said, Case management decided against immediate action this morning.

The normal complement of four deputies at the gates was doubled to eight when the crowd began to gather, and was joined shortly afterward by Sheriff Crowe and other officers.

Two incidents of violence were reported early. Case photographer Roger Slater saw the top of his convertible car was slashed and stones thrown when he attempted to enter.

Non-Striker Hurt

Ernest Roessler, a non-striker, said he was cut over one eye as he tried to go through a small gate opposite the main gates.

Observers were unable to determine how many of the persons gathering outside the gates initially were UAW local 180 pickets, how many were non-strikers and how many were simply spectators.

Lumumba Confers With UN Leader

United Nations, N. Y. —He winds up his talks with Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo holds more talks

Lumumba told newsmen he and Hammarskjold in their first meeting had discussed the general situation in the Congo and the session had been "very fruitful."

"I express my satisfaction for the understanding which has prevailed during our conversation," the premier said, speaking in French.

An aide said Lumumba particularly wants the U.N. to send engineers and doctors to the Congo.

When he arrived in New York, Lumumba told newsmen that peace in the Congo depends on "the immediate withdrawal of Belgian troops." He thanked the security council for its last resolution and offered friendship to President Eisenhower.

The secretary general invited Lumumba to lunch today with the members of the U.N. Security council, which last Friday called on Belgium to speed up withdrawal of her troops from the Congo.

Later today Lumumba was to talk with delegates of the 29-nation Asian-African group and hold a news conference.

Defense Plank Pleases Ike, Hagerty Says

Newport, R. I. — President Eisenhower thinks the national defense plank recommended by the Republican platform committee is pretty good, the summer White House said today.

That clearly lined the president up against New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on that issue. Rockefeller has called the plank inadequate and says it "does not face up realistically to the dangers that threaten the nation."

The plank the platform committee recommended in Chicago yesterday on the eve of the opening of the GOP national convention praised Eisenhower's conduct of national defense and said it would be continued on a no-price-ceiling basis.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, declined to report the president's reaction to any of the other planks—on agriculture, for example. The press secretary said Eisenhower had received a synopsis on some of the others but had not had an opportunity to study them thoroughly.

Hagerty also refused to comment on published reports that Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, is Eisenhower's choice for the GOP vice presidential nominee.

Morton Hits at Democrat Pledges

GOP Chairman Says Platform Would Cost Up to $20 Billion More Every Year if Adopted

Chicago — Republican Chairman Thruston B. Morton charged today that the Democratic platform would cost the government $15 to $20 billion more a year to carry out pledges in the Democratic platform.

In a speech opening the Republican National convention, Morton also took issue with a statement by Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Morton said he is confident "that our convention will nominate candidates who would never think of apologizing for expressing regret on behalf of the United States to Soviet Russia's Nikita Khrushchev."

Kennedy said shortly after the collapse of the Paris summit conference that he would have expressed regret to Khrushchev over the U2 spy plane incident. Khrushchev had demanded an apology from President Eisenhower among other things, as a prerequisite to continuing the summit conference.

Will Not Apologize

Morton, who is Senator from Kentucky, added that the candidates we nominate will never find it necessary to apologize to anybody for any action taken by the American government; for any policies we see fit to adopt.

Morton said there is nothing rigged, and little pre-ordained, about this convention. He said it would adopt a "realistic, honest platform that we can and will fulfill—a sincere, intelligent platform to build a better America."

In contrast, Morton said "the truly fantastic Democratic platform pledges creation of a government providing every human, need, want and luxury—but a government ruling our private lives and our public lives, and our behavior, like a czar."

Submitted Platform

The Republican party, Morton said, "submitted the new Democratic platform to our top government fiscal experts, and asked for a wholly unbiased estimate of its cost to the taxpayers, if its promised subsidies, grants, gifts and loans were ever made effective."

"The answer was a staggering $15 to $20 billion a year, on top of the money we're spending now."

Morton also hit at Democratic charges that the Eisenhower administration has let U. S. defense measures deteriorate to a dangerous point and that the economy has not been expanding fast enough to stay ahead of Russia's.

Halted Communists

Morton said the nation has a strong defense, "the kind of defense that has helped to maintain a no-war status in the world, and halted communist expansion, since President Eisenhower fulfilled his 1952 campaign pledge to end the fighting and dying in Korea."

As for the economy, Morton said, "This American economy our opponents like to tag as second class would have to carry out a wrecking job about equal to a major atomic bomb attack to get down to the Russian level. We would have to bet rid of nearly half our steel industry, scrap two thirds of American hydro-electric power, to get down to the Russian level."

Castro Plans Barter With Communist Giants For Sugar Commerce

Reds Pay With Commodities Pegged at World Prices Instead of U. S. Premium

Havana — Fidel Castro from a harvest set this year at has bound a third of the Cuban 5,700,000 tons. Shipments to sugar crop—the cornerstone of other communist countries the country's shaky economy will bring the total Cuban sugar going behind the iron curtain to nearly 2 million tons a year.

The Russians also have bought the 700,000 tons of sugar President Eisenhower cut from Cuba's 1960 sales to the United States.

Barter Basis

The Castro deals with the communists are largely on a barter basis pegged to world prices. The United States long has been Cuba's best customer at premium prices of 2 to 2 1/2 cents a pound above the world market price. The Soviet Union pays the world price and red China presumably will do likewise.

The Castro government's agreement with the two giants of the communist world provide for payment mostly in machinery, oil and other goods, with only a small amount of cash.

With purchases of 2,419,653 tons of sugar in 1960, the United States this year is still Cuba's best customer. But mounting U. S. anger at Castro's anti-American campaign and his seizure of American property in Cuba put the size of futures sales to the United States in doubt.

Castro Absence

Fidel Castro failed to appear at the signing Saturday of the trade pact with Red China's Deputy Minister of Commerce Lu Hsu-chang.

The bearded prime minister, who was put to bed with pneumonia more than two weeks ago, has not made a public appearance since a television speech last month.

Castro's failure to appear at a celebration Tuesday would create a sensation, for the 26th of July is the biggest holiday in the calendar of revolutionary Cuba. On that date in 1953 the youthful Castro opened his civil war to overthrow Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

28 Killed in Japanese Bus

Kyoto, Japan — Twenty-eight Japanese were killed yesterday and 18 injured when a sightseeing bus side-swiped another and dropped 160 yards to the bottom of a ravine. The death bus was returning from a Buddhist shrine and monastery atop 2,782-foot Mt. Hiei. Those in the second bus were not injured.

A friend, John Wooten, told police the newlyweds started quarrelling when Mrs. Mull returned to the wedding party after a 90-minute absence.

It was the second marriage for Mrs. Mull, 25.

Ike Inspects Sub, Watches Polaris Shot

Interrupts Vacation For Platform Speech At GOP Convention

Newport, R.I. — President Eisenhower boards a Polaris submarine today for an inspection tour.

He also will preside at a meeting of the National Security council at the summer White House — a session described by a spokesman as routine with no emergency overtones.

Tomorrow the president will interrupt his vacation and fly to Chicago for an evening address to the Republican national convention. The speech is expected to deal with defense and other campaign platform issues.

The submarine the president arranged to inspect this afternoon is the Patrick Henry, a 380-foot sister ship of the George Washington, which fired the first two successful underwater Polaris missile shots last week off Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Eisenhower will travel out to the Patrick Henry in Newport harbor aboard the small naval vessel Barbara Anne. The submarine will not submerge.

After the inspection, the president will reboard the Barbara Anne to observe a dummy shoot of the missile.

The president's press secretary, James C. Hagearty, advised newsmen to wait for the president's convention speech to get his views on the GOP platform.

The platform is slated for adoption Wednesday.

Hearing Disturbances Caused By Spinal Pressure On Nerves

A recent research project of the S. J. Palmer Chiropractic Clinic was the investigation of hearing losses and their improvement under chiropractic care.

The research on 1029 cases illustrated that 56.5% of the patients showed an increase in hearing acuity following chiropractic care. The average increase in hearing acuity was 5.91% in 15 days.

A Western Electric Model 6 B. P. audiometer was used throughout all pre and post examinations. Bone and air conduction tests were conducted on both right and left ear in the various frequency ranges.

It is significant to note that Chiropractic was discovered in Davenport, Iowa in the year 1895 as a case of complete deafness. Dr. D. D. Palmer gave the first Chiropractic adjustment to a Negro janitor, one Harvey Lillard, who had been completely deaf for many years. His hearing was restored after adjustment.

Lutherans Plan Social Welfare Seminar

The Lutheran midwest conference on social welfare will be held Sept. 1 to 3 at the American Baptist Assembly camp at Green Lake.

Theme of this year's meeting will be "The Lutheran Church in Health and Welfare." Featured speakers will include Dr. Harold Haas, executive secretary, board of social mission, United Lutheran Church of America, New York, N. Y.; Joseph Baldwin, director, Milwaukee county department of public welfare; and Mrs. Margaret Brevoort, executive secretary, Milwaukee psychiatric services.

First Battalion Named Best in Regiment for Second Straight Year

For the second consecutive year, the First battalion won an award as the best battalion in the Army Reserve's 274th regiment (basic combat training) of the 84th division.

The battalion, which returned to Appleton Saturday after two weeks at Camp McCoy, won the regimental drill, team competition and won the highest mess award for food, and serving. Sgt. David Sears, Appleton, led the battalion in drill and Sgt. Gerald Baldwin, Appleton, was in charge of the food.

Commended for superior instruction were Lt. Duane Hoerning and his brother, Lt. Robert Hoerning, both of New London, and Lt. LeRoy Blohm, Bonduel.

Scrap Prices Should Rise With Upswing

Scrap prices — many of them at low levels — are expected to pick up in the near future with the general upswing in business reports a magazine.

The violence in the Congo's copper-rich Katanga province — an important supply source for Europe — has boosted copper scrap 1 cent per pound. If the situation is prolonged, prices will rise. Copper scrap prices are higher than last year, but about 4 per cent lower than they were at the beginning of 1960.

The steel industry believes steel scrap prices have bottomed out — prices are some 21 per cent below year-ago levels. While scrap dealers do not foresee any price increase in the immediate future, no further drop is expected. Prices have been holding steady and recently there have been scattered sales at slightly increased prices.

Paper scrap prices have dropped more than 30 per cent from year-ago levels because business has been slow for some paper industry consumers. Prices are expected to firm when the mills reopen after their July vacations.

186 Eighth Grade Students Enroll In Typing Course

A total of 186 students have enrolled in the eighth grade typing classes which begin next Monday, Appleton High school principal Herbert H. Helble has announced.

There will be three classes, each meeting for two hours a day, five days a week for four weeks. One begins at 8 a.m., one at 10 a.m. and one at 1:30 p.m. The afternoon class was added after enrollment rose too high for two classes.

The first day of classes, Helble has asked all students to report to the high school at 8 a.m. so that class assignments can be made. Individual student needs will be considered in dividing students among the three classes, he said.

Carl A. Steffin and August Straus are teaching the new course.

Will Power Stronger Than Drugs for Curbing Appetite

Will power is still more potent than any drug to curb overeating and probably will remain so until the appetite mechanism of man is better understood.

This is the conclusion drawn by Dr. Walter Modell, director of clinical pharmacology, Cornell university medical college, in a report on the "Status and Prospect of Drugs for Overeating" to the Council on Drugs of the American Medical association.

"Drugs which give assistance along the lines now available provide short-lived symptomatic relief only," Dr. Modell reported.

Need Motivation

"In virtually every instance, motivation for losing weight as well as the psychological reasons for overeating are important considerations in determining the therapeutic regimens, which are likely to be effective and to lead to sustained benefits.

"If more were known about the normal appetite mechanism, perhaps something more rational and lasting could be done about it pharmacologically. However, although we have many hypotheses, neither the central site nor the precise mechanisms of normal appetite control are yet definitely established.

"The eating patterns of most modern human adults are so distorted that appetite drive and specific food selection appear to have little to do with energy and metabolic requirements."

Culture Effective

The culture one lives in has a strong effect on eating habits, he said. "The business luncheon with cocktail, the before-meal highball or two or three, the with-highball canapes, all are part of the mores which consider the slim figure desirable but provides eating customs which make it hard to achieve."

In the use of stimulating drugs, the patient's abnormal drive for food is distracted by a sense of well-being or "lift."

However, Dr. Modell said these drugs "do not produce appetite suppression in obese persons sufficiently to make practice jump without prior simultaneous dietary control."

Not Invaders

Vancouver, Wash.—Reports poured into the Clark county sheriff's office that parachutists were coming down in an area northeast of the city. Investigators, who rushed to the area, found a parachute club had made a practice jump without prior warning.

Social Security

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I hire a woman to clean in my home one day each week. I pay her $8.00 for the day. I have talked to her about social security and she said she doesn't care about it and doesn't want the tax deducted from her pay. As she doesn't want the social security, am I obliged to file and pay the tax?

A. Yes — the law states that a tax return must be filed and social security tax paid by the employer of domestic help if the cash wages paid to one person total $50 in a calendar quarter.

Q. My husband and I are both over age 65. He has not filed for his social security because he is still working. Could I file for my wife's benefit? I have never worked outside the home.

A. A woman can be entitled to social security on her husband's account only for the same months in which he, the husband, is entitled to payments. It may be to your advantage for your husband to contact his social security office. Benefits may be payable for some months.

The social security administration office is in the courthouse annex, 401 S. Elm street, Appleton.

Construction on Mt. Olive Lutheran church began in 1919, five years after the congregation was formed. The Rev. R. E. Ziesemer became pastor of the congregation when it was organized in the spring of 1914.

The pastor and congregation celebrated 45th anniversary Sunday. The church has been remodeled twice.

Red Army, including the key force in East Germany, is proceeding on schedule. But the policy-makers also fear that the Kremlin may think this country is paralyzed by the distractions of the election year. They further consider that the provocations of recent weeks look much too much like preliminary skirmishes—preparatory tests of will and toughness—before a major show-down.

Although the Soviets are not thought to be planning a big war, the possibility that they are preparing a war-like crisis is no longer excluded. The crisis could lead almost anywhere, if Soviet actions are based on the kind of miscalculations suggested by Khrushchev's remark to Kreisky. Hence it is now being said that while we may still hope for the best, we must prepare for the worst; and prepare coolly, realistically, and in a way that will convince Khrushchev that we mean business.

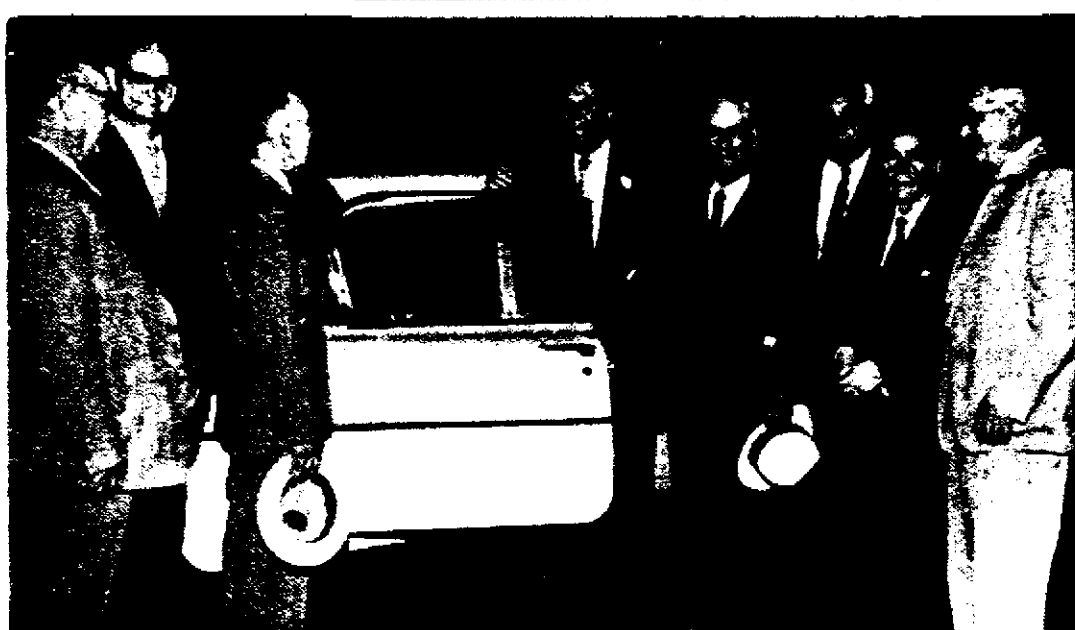

Two Lines of Action

In the way of preparing for the worst, two parallel lines of action are under discussion. One is to order the NATO deployments contained in the first sections of the contingency plan for Berlin. The other is to increase the defense appropriations rather massively. This is the language Khrushchev understands. Nothing less than an increased defense effort, many policy-makers now feel, will persuade the Kremlin that the United States cannot safely be provoked too far.

The mere warning that we must prepare for the worst, must have been an unpalatable dose for President Eisenhower. It is not known whether Herter added the suggestion of an increased defense effort—which would have been super-unpalatable. If the secretary made such a suggestion, the word at Newport was "wait and see."

Budget Director Maurice Stans is not waiting. He already has put a temporary freeze on all the congressional additions to the president's strength-through-weakness military budget. But if the president finally decides to prepare for the worst in a serious manner, he will get what he wants from congress by a vote of acclamation, with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson leading the chorus.

Remark by Khrushchev May Have Importance

Talk of Peace, Preparations for War Lead U. S. Policy Makers to Expect Worst or Best

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington — A conversation that Soviet diplomacy has entered in Vienna a few weeks ago may be more meaningful than any with its open clash between the Khrushchev's former views and the more violent views of the Nikita S. Chinese communists. At any Khrushchev rate, the few weeks since that was taking his meeting have seen Soviet leave of the preparations everywhere, and Austrian For of every possible kind.

Alsop

"I can assure you," said Khrushchev in effect, "neither Britain nor France will ever fight for Berlin; and the United States will not either." Khrushchev may only have been trying to soften up Willi Brandt through Kreisky, who is a close friend of the brave mayor of Berlin. But Khrushchev may also have meant what he said, in which case he has made an appallingly dangerous miscalculation of risk. This possibility is strengthened by the new stage

Sec. of State Christian A. Herter went to tell President Eisenhower in Newport on Tuesday that American policy-makers have begun to have grave doubts about their earlier, fairly hopeful estimate of Khrushchev's post-summit intentions.

Hope But Prepare

The policy-makers still find it hard to believe that Khrushchev intends to start a thermonuclear war. They cling to the hope that Khrushchev has compromised with the Chinese and other active-man backed into his car and satisfy them, but ruling out any really risky action. They note hopefully that there is no sign of war preparation by the Soviets. On the contrary, Khrushchev's reduction of the

This Is Coexistence?

Several years ago we took violent exception to a statement by Walter Lippmann that the free nations must learn to live in the same world with the communist empire for, perhaps, a thousand years. Events since that time, and especially in the last six months, have reinforced our belief that acceptance of the Lippmann line of thinking will mean the eventual defeat of freedom everywhere.

In the business world there is an old saw to the effect that there is no such thing as standing still — if you are not going forward, you are going backward. Perhaps we can best sum up our thinking about United States foreign policy by paraphrasing that motto thus. If you are not on the offensive, you are on the defensive. Essentially this is what has happened to us during the last several years. We reached a point where our defenses seemed reasonably sound, and then we sat on them. Today we find ourselves with the enemy in our midst, clawing his way up our battlements and sneering at us from nearby bases.

During the first Eisenhower term we moved swiftly to repair the damage done by the mistakes of the previous Truman administration, and to extend the advantages gained by that administration's sound policies. We stopped the communists in the Formosa Strait and sealed them off in Korea and Indo-China, and thus stopped further military aggression by the communists by the simple method of letting them know that we would fight them on any front they chose. Meanwhile we solidified the western alliance by continuing our support of the Marshall Plan and NATO, both started under the Truman Administration, and gained ourselves some allies in the Far East and the Middle East by applying the same policies there. Thus by about the time Mr. Eisenhower was reelected we had developed a reasonably sound defensive position: the communists did not dare commit new military aggressions and nations such as Italy and France which had once seemed ripe for communist take-overs had been made safe for freedom.

But in a cold war as in a hot one (or, for that matter as in sports), the development of a good defense is useful only if it serves as a base from which to launch an offense. Sitting on a defense, even if it is a good one, only invites the enemy to probe for weaknesses — and there are always weaknesses. With our defensive psychology we sat and waited, and the communists did not fail to sense their opportunity. They moved boldly to the offensive, slashing at us with the weapons of vituperation and slander, making us back up step by step (to slash back would be ungentlemanly) until today we have suffered the humiliation of having them tell us, in the United Nations, that if we dare to touch Cuba 90 miles off our shores they will punish us with their rockets!

It was perhaps accidental, perhaps not, that the man who rose to power in Soviet Russia at about the time we went on the psychological defensive was an individual whose personality and abilities are especially adapted to the type of offensive which would advance the communist cause the farthest under those circumstances. Nikita Khrushchev has the shrewd and ruthless mind of a Georgian peasant, and he instinctively realized that with us acting the part of the gentlemen, he could play the bully with impunity. It is now apparent that Mr. Eisenhower's triumphal world tour last spring (the one time we took the psychological offensive during his second term and with amazing success) frightened Khrushchev and his associates terribly. Their answer was a program of calculated ridicule, first aimed at the President himself and now aimed at America's position of power.

The threat of rockets-if-you-touch-Cuba is, of course, an empty one: Russia is not going to touch off a world holocaust over Cuba. But it was not made to frighten us; it was made to ridicule us, to make the rest of the world laugh at us and think to itself that the power of the United States must indeed be a paper tiger to suffer such insults. Meanwhile millions of people live under the communist yoke in Europe and Asia: a situation which, according to the Lippmann theory, we must never do anything about.

Here, then, is where our defensive policies have led us. Mr. Eisenhower has holed up at Newport apparently planning to spend the remainder of his time in office either sulking or, at the very least, blandly ignoring the ruin of his policies of negotiation and coexistence. The only American who seems to have gumption enough to talk back to the Russians is our ambassador to the U.N. Henry Cabot Lodge, but he does not operate at a high enough level to make his words really heard in many places. And since we are now caught in what a British observer recently called "the quadrennial paralysis of United States foreign policy during a presidential campaign" apparently Khrushchev can continue to slap us in the face at least until next November without fearing that anyone will punch him in the stomach.

The Difference Between Parties

Every election year a lot of people ask whether there is really any difference between Republicans and Democrats when there actually seems to be much more variance within the parties. It was clear from the speeches of Congressmen John Byrnes and Henry Reuss before the Association of Commerce that they both thought most definitely the differences are notable and important.

The congressmen agreed that the economy of the nation should expand but they chose completely opposite ways of encouraging the action. Mr. Reuss asked for a cutting of interest rates so that money would be cheaper, and buying, building, debt and spending in general would be increased. Mr. Byrnes emphasized that this sort of pump priming would result in only a temporary flow and a disastrous collapse later on.

Author Clinton Rossiter, in a new book titled Parties and Politics in America, says that if you "look deep into the soul of a Democrat . . . you will find plans to build 400,000 units of public housing and to ship tractors to Ghana (whether Ghana wants them or not); look deep into the soul of a Republican and you will find hopes for a reduction in taxes and for a balanced budget." This generalization is not so facetious as it may sound. Almost throughout their histories, the Democrats have campaigned for cheap money, while the Republicans, in part descendants of the old Federalists, have fought for a sound currency.

We are inclined to agree with Mr. Byrnes at this period in the nation's history. The needling of the economy ala the Democrats, may be important or desirable at a time of deep depression but it hardly seems intelligent or even tolerable when the country is as prosperous as right now. The Democratic answer to this is that the spurring of economic action is important to keep depressions away. Their appeal is to temporarily depressed areas or industries which, if they should be helped, ought to be assisted independently of general laws and policies.

There is a considerable attempt to sell the philosophies of the two parties to the people in a palatable form. Thus, the Democrats have promised something for everyone in the recently adopted platform, while Sen. Kennedy has emphasized the "challenge" to the stalwart and strong. The Republicans may be expected to pad their platform somewhat with promises although many of their spokesmen have announced they will not attempt to outbid the Democrats in giveaway schemes.

But there are more than philosophies in the differences. Mr. Rossiter touches on it when he notes that "a gathering of Democrats is more sweaty, disorderly, offhand and rowdy than a gathering of Republicans; it is also likely to be more cheerful, imaginative, tolerant of dissent, and skillful at the game of give-and-take. A gathering of Republicans is more respectable, sober, purposeful and businesslike than a gathering of Democrats; it is also more likely to be more self-righteous, pompous, cut-and-dried, and just plain boring."

There are supposed to be more Democrats in the country than Republicans. The primary reason, we suspect, is not so much the matter of promising more things to more people and most definitely not more success in running the country intelligently. It is simply that more Americans equate respectability with self-righteousness, and rowdiness with cheerfulness. In these respects neither Mr. Byrnes nor Mr. Reuss are representative of their parties, but as both would concede, there were not many votes to be changed in the Association of Commerce anyway.

The Owl Is a Friend of Man

Because the owl flies and feeds at night and hides during daylight hours he is a stranger to most people. People fear what they do not know. Thus the owl is being wiped out by hunters, farmers and others who should recognize him as a friend. The National Audubon Society says on what it believes to be good authority that the single barn owl may capture as many small rodents as a dozen cats. It says a British study reveals that in one area owls took 23,980 rodents each year per square mile. With this record the owl is rated by those who know him best as one of our most beneficial birds. The owl is reported to be a great help in controlling rodents that could overwhelm our crops and forests.

Nevertheless, the owl is being slowly wiped out by being shot and by having his home destroyed by bulldozers. Since owls live in hollow trees farmers are urged to leave an occasional dead tree or to place those removed by large nesting boxes which serve very well if hung high in the tree. This is a bit of advice that can be followed at practically no expense. And the admonition not to shoot an owl can be followed at great profit.

Education Growing Increasingly Important for Modern Survival

BY LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

Recently Dr. Milton E. Eisenhower, president of The Johns Hopkins university, stated that: "Never before has civilization signed a contract for survival with its institutions of higher learning. To educated men and women of uncommon ability falls the task of protecting mankind from physical and ideological weapons which can cause its own destruction."

Accepting the fact that there is a desperate need for more educated people if our civilization is to survive and develop, we run into the multiple demands being placed on universities today. One of these is the problem of specialization.

Reviewing physical and intellectual developments in this century, Dr. Eisenhower pointed to this increasing trend toward specialization. Where once occupations and professions could be numbered on the fingers, the American society now contains 42,000 specialties, only one-fourth of which can be handled by unskilled workers. Preparing for quality performance in these specialties has imposed new burdens on educators.

The day when a scholar could stay abreast of the intellectual developments in his field with relative ease is gone. Last year 55,000 journals were published, containing 1,200,000 articles in the physical and life sciences alone. In one tiny segment of the intellectual disciplines, more than 35,000 significant articles were published.

The enormous increase in knowledge has accelerated demands for its application.

Scholars have done an amazing job in meeting the demands. In fact, the lag between discovery and practical application has been so foreshortened that some new techniques actually cannot be put into effect before they turn the corner of obsolescence. Ten years ago 75 per cent of the drugs in common use today were not even known. Half of all the products manufactured by our largest chemical company were unknown a short 15 years ago.

An essential factor in modern life is that knowledge is burgeoning with bewildering speed. This explosive growth of knowledge has brought into being a vast expansion of the area of post-doctoral studies in universities. In the past one could assume that when a scholar had earned his Ph.D. he had reached the point where his understanding of the field was comprehensive. Now, however, mature scholars and scientists are feeling an increasing need for higher study within the university; beyond the Ph.D. level. Thus post-doctoral students are being attracted in increasing numbers to distinguished universities to do original research and thinking above the levels they can reach independently or in formal courses.

This relatively new demand being made on American universities is a welcome one which will assist institutions of higher education in doing their part in the survival of our civilization. At the same time it highlights the demands placed on American universities in making it possible for young scholars to receive the training necessary for specialized studies.

Commenting on these new demands, Dr. Eisenhower said confidently that: "We must and will provide the atmosphere and facilities for free research, not only in the sciences which contribute to national strength, but in the social studies and humanities which contribute to the spiritual and moral enlightenment of mankind."

Auto Import-Export Business Seems to Run on 1-Way Street

From The New Orleans Times
Picayune

Automobile import-export is on a 1-way street so far as the United States is concerned, despite the compact car competing with foreign "bugs."

Recent statistics of the American Automobile manufacturers reveal that passenger car exports by the U.S. last year hit a low of 116,520 units as compared with the import of 668,070. Thus far this year, export expectations have risen to 160,000 against an estimated import of 450,000.

But, the manufacturers say that the compact car accounts for only a fraction of total exports. Among rea-

Niki's Statements Remind of Hitler

Well, Niki has finally revealed his true nature — instead of the affable, back-slapping, hard drinking 'hell fellow' who can be serious and thoughtful as occasion requires, we now see him as an arrogant, blustering, bad-tempered, ill-mannered bully, who apparently considers himself a master of invective. He is not willing to adhere to the usual decencies of diplomatic exchange of opinions which are ordinarily observed by sovereign nations even when relations are strained.

His conflicting press releases are reminiscent of the near approach to madness which characterized Hitler's rise (and fall). He now gives us the impression of one who strikes women, frightens babies, and steps on flowers.

He has expressed a willingness to meet Ike's successor at a summit conference. If and when such a meeting ever does occur, what assurance is there that Niki will be there? Some Soviet leaders have gone into oblivion rather rapidly without the benefit of an election.

A recent publication pictured 14 attractive Russian youngsters entitled, "Will They Be Our Friends or Foes?" They give the impression of an intelligent, happy group.

I have always had the vague idea that the average Soviet citizen is not greatly different than ours — wants to make a decent living and sons for a falling American market overseas are high tariffs, increased production capacities of foreign manufacturers and recognition that U.S.-style cars are still too big and too expensive for volume market of most other countries.

When Detroit learns why Americans buy foreign cars, perhaps it will find a way to improve the import-export ratio.

raise a family which will grow up with honor and respect in his community. Leadership tells the story — if the Soviet leaders can get over the idea that they are destined to rule the world, even the universe, perhaps all will be well.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Corey Ford, a writer, recently referred to himself as a bachelor. In a previous article he had mentioned his wife. A reader called this discrepancy to his attention. After admitting he is a bachelor, he explains: "My wife, bless her, is always there when I need her for an article. I tell you, fellows, she's the finest little woman who never existed." Pretty cute, I thought.

Speaking of cute maneuvers, I think Gov. Nelson's budget balancing should be ranked in the first division. For more than a year we are led to believe that the state budget is $20 million or more in the red. A blue ribbon tax committee is appointed to suggest equitable ways and means of meeting the deficit, an expensive special session of the legislature is called to resolve the problem, there is a wordy exchange of charges and countercharges between political opponents, and just a few hours before our solons are ready to compromise and go home our chief executive announces that our finances are o.k., or practically so.

We are all glad to know the state of Wisconsin is solvent and perhaps this method of budget balancing — "wait and see what happens" — could be used by the average citizen (if there is such an animal). Let's suppose that he is badly in debt — just wait and see if it works out some way — probably his banker would not approve.

ON TAXES

On the subject of taxes it is interesting to note that, nationwide, general property taxes provide 86 per cent of the tax revenue which local governments — cities, counties, school districts, etc. — collect. Even though we have a relatively high state income tax, the ratio of property taxes to market value of real estate in Wisconsin is the seventh highest in the nation.

The lethargy of the so-called average citizen in politics and serious government affairs has been the subject of much comment. I have a friend who is constantly squawking about the doings of our public servants at national, state and local levels and I chide him a bit that he has never circulated a petition for a candidate, has never contributed to a campaign, has never called a few friends to ask their support for a worthy candidate (so much the better if he happens to be a Republican). Many of us fall into the same category — satisfied to acquire a position of obscure prosperity. What can we expect if we don't do a little work for the right kind of candidates?

If we don't like the referee's decision in a Packers' game or the umpire's call against the Braves, we can yell loud and maybe the next call will be better — maybe not. But they are not elected officials and we cannot vote them in or throw them out. Government officials are different. Each one of us can do something constructive to promote good government.

A. C. Braun, Fox Cities' Famed Weatherman, to Retire Aug. 1

Al C. Braun, for more than 30 years the Fox Cities' unofficial weatherman, will retire Aug. 1 from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

He was this area's major source of weather information and, over the years, provided the Post-Crescent with facts and figures concerning meteorological happenings as well as offering a monthly analysis of weather conditions as they related to Appleton and the immediate area.

As an engineer, Braun played a major role in developing the Power company's hydrological and weather observation programs.

Praise From Editor

His voluntary service to the community as an observer and interpreter of weather phenomena covers 34 years. During that time, local residents, industries and news services grew to depend on Braun as the area's most reliable source of weather information.

E. L. Bisek, Post-Crescent news editor, said: "Mr. Braun is one of the Post-Crescent's most cooperative news sources. Over the years he has cheerfully supplied facts about the weather from the daily temperatures to facts on comparisons about heat, cold, snow and rain. His service to the community in this field cannot be measured."

His reputation as a weatherman was not only local. In 1937 Braun was honored at a testimonial dinner for having "rendered unusual and comprehensive cooperation for such an extended period of time" to the State and to the U. S. Weather bureau. Through the years many of his weather observations have been entered in the unusual phenomena log at the United States Weather bureau headquarters in Madison.

Many innovations As a result of his dedication to the study of weather, he has been responsible for many innovations in the field. He originated a hydrological balance sheet to catalogue weather information. The sheet is used to analyze and interpret data on precipitation, run-off, evaporation, transpiration and the like. He also published a highly regarded monthly weather bulletin which summarized all of the hydrological and weather information collected by the Power company during the month.

So well organized were his voluminous weather records that he could give, almost immediately, statistics on today's weather, as compared to any other day's weather, dating back to 1927. He received frequent requests to explain unusual weather conditions such as, why does it thunder in the middle of winter, and the like.

Braun compiled, analyzed and catalogued his weather information from the Power company's elaborate network of observation stations. These stations are located in Appleton and surrounding areas and in the Northern Wisconsin, Upper Michigan territory of Company operations. Each day observations are made at 18 rain gauge stations on the Menomonee river basin and at four stations in the company's southern division area, including Appleton.

He also gathered information vital to hydroelectric power generation from 23 observation wells and 13 profile wells in the Menomonee river basin.

Tab on Snowfall The observation wells are scattered throughout the basin and give a comprehensive picture of general groundwater conditions in the area. The profile wells are drilled in a line perpendicular to the stream at selected locations and provide a picture of the water table slope toward the stream at these various locations.

In addition Braun compiled hydrological statistics from the company's three resistivity sites and two soil moisture block sites. Resistivity and soil moisture provide an index of the amount of moisture in the soil mantle or ground above water level. During the winter months he kept tab on snowfall with reports from 22 snow stake stations in the same area.

Instruments at the various weather stations include anemometers or devices for measuring wind velocity, evaporation gauges for measuring evaporation, barometers for measuring atmospheric pressure and river flow gauges to measure the amount of stream flow.

After receiving all of these reports, Braun tabulated and evaluated the findings. Much of this information he compiled in the form of a monthly report which was widely distributed. In addition to the power company there were many other users of his reports: The U. S. Geological Survey offices in Madison, Lansing, Mich., and Indianapolis, Ind., the Public Service commission of Wisconsin, The University of Wisconsin, The United States Weather bureau, the Michigan Water Resources commission, county agents, district engineers, other utilities, municipalities and industries ranging from mining to papermaking.

Braun's co-workers at the Power company expressed the opinion that few men in the industry possessed his knowledge of this work.

Started in 1922 Braun started with the Power company in August of 1922 as a gas engineer. In March of 1926 he was transferred to the power plant as assistant engineer and chemist. In 1932 he was assigned to the engineer-

Actor Relates Story of Rise In Show Biz

'Horses Approach' Days are Over for Dwayne Hickman

BY DWAYNE HICKMAN
Writer for the Associated Press

My brother, Darryl, is an actor. Been one for a long time — much longer than I have. In fact, it wasn't until recently that the truth dawned on me that I might as well make show business a career. (The moment of truth just happened to be when "Dobie Gillis" was renewed for next season.)

But to get back to my brother, Darryl. I got my first taste of show business through him. We were just kids and it was a rainy Saturday afternoon. My mother, unappreciative of the artistic impressions we were adding to the new bathroom wallpaper, suggested that Darryl, my sister Dierdre and I repair to the attic and put on a play.

In short order Darryl had devised a plot, if you can call a monologue a plot, which called for him to be on stage the entire time. My sister, who was all of three years old, had to be the love interest.

Assigned Part
"Me," Darryl assured me that my role was all-important to the action. I was to be "horses approach."

I'm sure I was the most enthusiastic 6-year-old in history to simulate the approach of an entire cavalry division. Mother soon arrived in the attic with a piece of the ceiling in one hand and a box of crayons in the other. Her advice: Go back to redecorating the bathroom wallpaper.

Later Darryl transferred his enthusiasm into actual cash and made a name for himself as a boy actor. Since I had not quite lost the urge to decorate wallpaper, my mother, in the interests of the household, used to take me to the studios whenever Darryl obtained a role.

Well, I started my film career the day I removed the hinges from a door on the set, and the star made a most unusual entrance. I thought the scene hilarious, but mother explained that it would have to be reshot because the star had invented some new words and the sound track was, therefore, unusable. To prevent further incidents, I was given a small role and told to study it. If memory serves me, I became "a crippled waif of the streets."

Back in Old Days
Years later I was given a part on "The Bob Cummings Show."

I learned a lot from Bob Cummings during those five years.

But sometimes I felt that I was back in the "horses approach" days.

I'd be there to open a door and spill some milk, and then I'd go home.

"Dobie Gillis," on the other hand, would give me great scope and the chance to do a variety of things. And so, after receiving the blessings of Max Shulman, the creator of "Dobie Gillis," and several executives at 20th Century-Fox, I found my head in a bucket of bleach. I emerged as Dobie May I say here and now, however, that beginning next season Dobie will be wearing the natural brown hair of Dwayne Hickman. I've had my head in the bucket long enough.

Attic Players Prove Ability for Comedy

Area Politicians Attend Opening Performance of 'Born Yesterday'

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The opening night audience for the Attic Theater's "Born Yesterday" production was replete with politicians of the area, presumably as guests of the company.

This move may have been an adroit publicity stunt to tie in the play's political overtones with the campaigns getting underway, or it could have served as a warning to the politicians not to become venal instruments of unscrupulous men; for Garson Kanin's show drubbeats such politicians' downfall.

Despite the possible serious undercurrents of the production, the show is an immensely entertaining event staged colorfully by a whip-smart cast.

Pygmalion Theme

For the half dozen or so of you who might have forgotten, "Born Yesterday" is the Pygmalion theme set in post-World War II Washington where a bull-in-the-china-store, get-things-done dealer attempts to make his doxie more presentable by exposing her to what culture and savvy a political writer of high ideals has available. The exposure works too well, of course, bringing down the dealer and again joining Pygmalion and Galettea.

The Galettea and Pygmalion at hand were played by Lila Anderson and Burt King. King is an import from Oshkosh making his first appearance with Attic and his suave competence and understanding made him a welcomed addition.

Mrs. Anderson, sporting red hair for the part, continued to build for herself a reputation as one of the most versatile actresses in the company. Her Billie Dawn grew beautifully in understanding and warmth. In the performances to come, if her starting point becomes more brazenly brash, the portrait will be faultless.

The piece's villain is a big-hearted Hun whose cut-throat career has firmed up a ruthless philosophy without extinguishing the true human warmth of the man nearly smothered under the armor plate of selfish drive.

Harry Brock is a dream role—the guy that isn't all bad, but only a little good. In hands less sure and skillful deduced from a quarter-mile train, Chuck Schuman's it could be a nightmare, too. Schuman's Brock lives with all of his contradictions fired into an illogical logic that marks reality. The part is one of the foundations for Kanin's reputation and the veteran Attic

Lawrence Says Cities Cope With Growing Urban Menaces

Metropolitan Areas Build Wide Streets, Leave Open Spaces

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
En route from California

Going from one convention to the other by traveling to the coast and back by train—there's a chance to see the United States in sharp focus.

Certain thoughts inevitably pass through one's mind. How can any one man govern this vast country, with its multifarious problems? How can even the 537 members of congress look at the tasks of government from a national viewpoint? What will the situation be in 50 years when there may be 1,000 members of congress and half a billion people in the United States?

Years ago some political scientists predicted that eventually we would have four or five regional governments, with a quasi-president in each, and that the states wouldn't be able to handle the perplexing questions of a growing population.

But the states and the cities aren't lying down on the job. One is fascinated by the "Tale of Two Cities"—the remarkable growth of Los Angeles and San Francisco over the next few years. The airplane, years and their responsive-ness to the people's interest. This writer first saw the two cities in 1911, when he came out to Los Angeles to cover the famous McNamara trial. Los Angeles had only about 320,000 people, and the county's population was not much larger. Today the city has about 2½ million, and the county close to 6 million. But the people in the metropolitan areas can still see the sun and the sky. The streets are wide and the buildings sit back from broad sidewalks. What a contrast to New York, where one has the feeling of walking among tenements called apartment houses, and dark corridors between tall office buildings!

Building Regulations
In Los Angeles they haven't solved the traffic problem, but they have made real progress. Permits for construction of new buildings aren't granted unless parking facilities for employees are provided. If a building taller than usual is desired, there must be equal open space on the grounds around it.

Eight thoroughways traverse the city and the suburbs. Public transportation takes care of only 30 per cent of the traffic. As one moves along the scenic seacoast from Los Angeles to San Francisco, some areas are still dry desert land, while others are green with vegetable and fruit plots.

Jet Travel
Many of the newsmen and delegates at the Democratic national convention returned home through San Francisco. It is different from any other city in the world, with all the charm of a European city but with a far eastern touch, too. Talking with businessmen at San Francisco—the financial center of the Pacific coast—one is impressed by their feeling of nearness to points hitherto far distant. They think nothing of flying by jet to the East coast for meetings and conferences and getting back home the same day. One man told me of a luncheon held in Honolulu recently when a whole party flew from Los Angeles to Hawaii and back the same day.

The feeling of closeness to the East will have its impact on business and finance in the next few years. The airplane, especially the jet, has brought the sections of the country within a few hours of each other. Some railroad executives told me they fly east regularly to attend board meetings. For rest and relaxation and a chance to see these United States, one has to ride the

Robert Pierce, National Committeeman, Has Key Job in Making Event Run Smoothly

Pierce as the national committeeman is also in charge of the Wisconsin quota of tickets to the convention.

He has been given 81 visitors' admission passes which according to early applications from his home state, will be far from enough to satisfy demands.

Pierce rose to his rank as one of the chiefs of the national party organization after a classical apprenticeship in local politics.

He has served during more than 30 years of active party work as a precinct committeeman, county chairman, state chairman, and for the last four years, as national committeeman.

'Paca Motorist Pays $100 Fine for Speeding' Postpone Hearing for Men Accused of Attack On Ghana Official

Waupaca — Raymond L. Wauha, Jr., 21, Royalton street, Saturday was fined $100 by Police Justice George Whalen for speeding Friday on the town road to King between County Trunk K and Highway 22.

Police said he was clocked going 80 miles per hour in a 40 mile an hour zone.

Wisconsin politics as a story teller, specializing in anecdotes about the life and personalities of his little town in western Wisconsin.

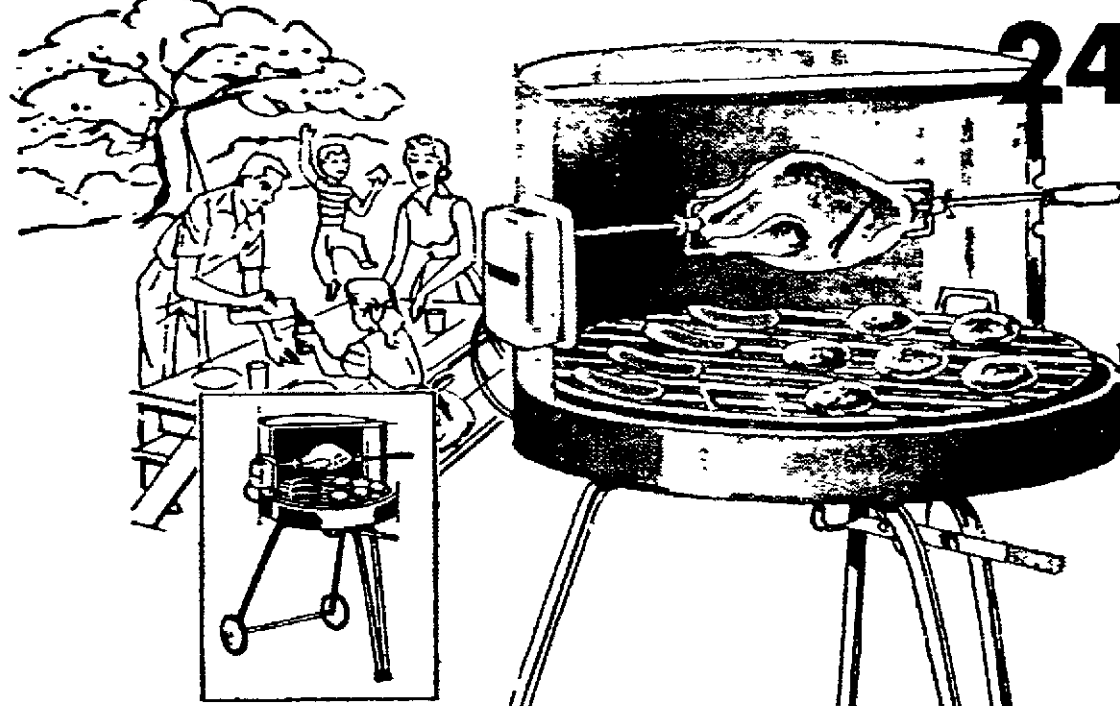

Pierce got an enthusiastic response when he told some of his favorite yarns at a meeting of the Republican national committee here.

A hearing for three men charged with a street attack on the high commissioner for Ghana was postponed today until Aug. 10 for further inquiry and "diplomatic arrangements."

Bail was granted the three accused of roughing up Sir Edward Asafu Adjaye Saturday night outside a hotel where he had visited Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba. The commissioner's injuries were minor, but Ghana regarded the incident as major and protested both in Accra and in London.

Prosecuting attorneys told the magistrate there were still some "diplomatic arrangements" to be made and requested the postponement.

Johnson Says Congress Will Be Productive

Sees Session Free Of Both Candidate, Platform Promotion

Johnson City, Tex. — Lyndon B. Johnson, the senate majority leader and Democratic vice presidential candidate, does not believe congressional will be a sounding board for party platforms or a campaign stump to promote candidates when it reconvenes Aug. 8.

He believes congress will stick to its unfinished business and have a short, but productive session, the Texan told a news conference yesterday at his LBJ ranch near here.

Republicans have been taunting the Democrats to enact laws putting their strong civil rights plank and other Democratic national convention into effect during the upcoming session.

"A platform is drawn up for submission to the voters," Johnson said. "If the voters approve of it they will make their decision known in November and it is the duty of the party to carry out the decision in the following congresses."

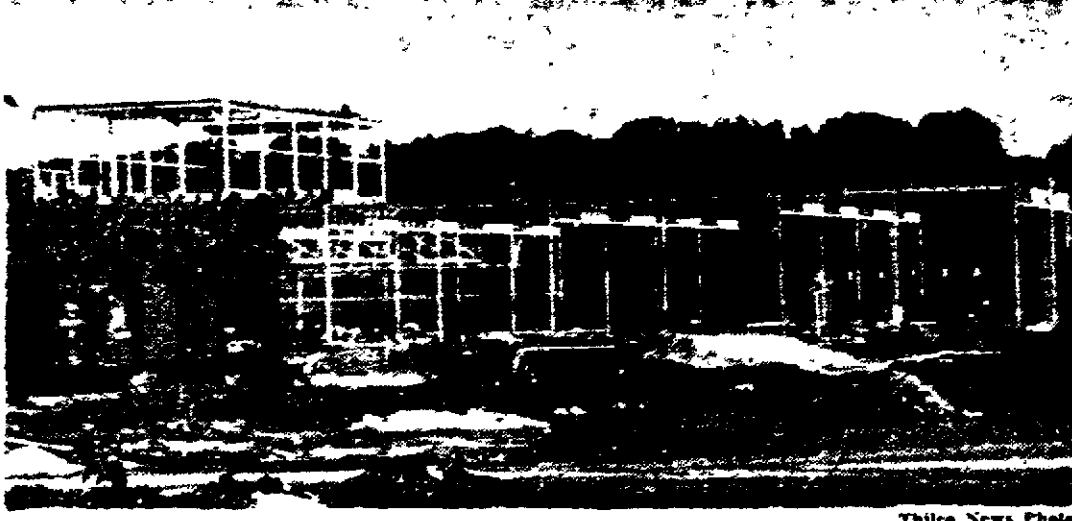

He reaffirmed his support of the Democratic party platform, saying "I intend to run on the platform."

Johnson, who returned from a vacation in Acapulco, Mexico, Saturday night, talked by phone with the Democratic vice presidential nominee, Sen. Douglas, and John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sunday. He said he and Kennedy will discuss congress work over Mark Tatro and Bay 6-3.

He announced that he has speaking engagements at Nashville, Tenn., July 30, at Ottumwa, Iowa, July 31, and will go to Oklahoma City Aug. 5 for day-long festivities in connection with a new book published by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.). He plans to go direct from Oklahoma City to Washington.

Johnson also said he and Kennedy had agreed on an early visit to Hawaii. He will either go alone to attend the ground-breaking for the East-West Cultural Institute or at a later date with Kennedy.

He also said Kennedy desired both candidates to visit Alaska and Hawaii at the beginning of the campaign.

Stalin's Great Blunder Prevents Red Aggression in Europe Now

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Stalin's greatest blunder. In account for this quirk in British and American thinking. The Soviet frontier in fact lies at the Elbe rather than at the Oder-Neisse or Curzon Line.

Corrective Attempts
Lottich says Russia has made many attempts to correct this error. The so-called "captive nations" were for centuries related to Germany and even more particularly to Austria. Lottich says:

"Allied control in West Berlin may be the key to preventing Communist aggression in central Europe. Certainly the western foothold in Berlin blunts the Soviet thrust westward. The Red army, entrenched in the North German plain with solid bases in Poland, points its sword towards Western Europe."

Archery Scores Show Progress After 4 Weeks

Topping the 9-year group was Tom Busse with 36 hits and 234 points, Lyle Guerts with 25 hits and 115 points and Steve Driessen with 23 hits and 108 points.

Tops in the 10-year bracket were Mark Kavanaugh with 24 hits and 100 points, Steve Mereness with 26 hits and 98 points and Dave Egan with 28 hits and 96 points. Leading the 12 and 13-year group were Dennis Gerhart with 36 hits and 256 points and Bob Keil with 34 hits and 198 points. Jim Koberlein was tops for youth over 14 with 36 hits and 202 points.

Cubs, Dodgers Still Tied for PeeWee Hardball Loop

Kimberly — The Cubs and Dodgers continued their winning ways in PeeWee hardball competition to remain deadlocked for first place with 8-1 records.

The Braves have a 6-3 mark followed by the Phillies with 5-4, the Reds, Pirates and Cardinals with 4-5 and the Giants, White Sox and Red Sox with 2-7.

Games last week saw the Dodgers dump the Pirates 15-0 as Bill Kroner hurled a no-hitter. He helped his cause with a single and grand slam homer. Kroner hurled and batted his team to a 9-5 win over the Braves as he cracked a 2-run homer and a bases loaded single good for two runs.

The Cubs came from behind to dump the Phillies 2-1 as the losers scored in the second on a walk and a double. The end on a walk and a double by Joe Van Bortel. The winners tallied two in the final play for the winners and inning on a double by Corky Smith and an error. Smith was the winning hurler and Jeff McSorley the loser. The Cubs downed the Giants 11-1

Beauty Contestant Finds Measurements Out of Proportion

Miss Pastetenbecker, a German girl who entered the contest, replied she measured 36-37-38.

Briscoe finally discovered she was measuring in centimeters. In inches that works out to 34-22-35.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individual H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Model School In Operation In Madison

Elementary Plan Combines Ideas Already Used Here

A working model for a new plan of elementary education is in operation in Wisconsin this summer for the first time.

The plan, born at the University of Wisconsin and operating at Madison's Washington school, is a combination of educational theories, many of which have been used in Appleton public schools, designed to give modern schools maximum learning efficiency. It combines such methods as teaching teams, instructional secretaries, alternated large and small group instruction, teacher specialization, teacher training, and dividing students into groups by age, ability, interest and special need.

On the first floor of Washington school are 90 primary students. Upstairs are 90 intermediate students, who will be 4th through 7th graders.

Study Leisure Time
Each group is taught by a team of five teachers — who are spared the nuisance of clerical jobs by having an instructional secretary.

The primary children are studying "people" (in foreign countries) and the intermediates are studying "ways to spend leisure time." Through these general subjects, the children study reading, creative writing, arithmetic, spelling, handwriting, art, crafts, music and dramatics.

Each day, all 90 primary children meet with their team of teachers, and the intermediates meet with theirs. However, they meet in the large group only for a short time.

Smaller Groups
They can break up into groups according to their academic abilities, according to their interests, according to their needs or according to an infinite number of ways.

The teachers use their talents where they are best placed: an expert on teaching reading will do most of that work, while the arithmetic specialist will do most of that teaching.

In the fall researchers will set up control groups in conventional classes to measure their progress against that of the children under the plan, who then will study ordinary academic subjects — enriched through added appeals to individual interests.

Also, the plan will be used in the Janesville and West Bend school systems, which participate with UW, the Ford Foundation and Appleton and other cities in the Wisconsin Improvement program. A $625,000-plus educational experimentation project. Six Janesville and West Bend teachers are serving on Washington school teams so that they can help with the plan in their own schools.

368 Colleges Take Part in New Testing Program in First Year
Iowa City, Iowa — A total of 368 colleges and universities participated in the American College Testing program's first year. Jean Paul Mather, ACT president, reports.

More than 125,000 high school students participated. Mather, who came to ACT from the presidency of the University of Massachusetts, hailed the participation as "amazingly rapid confirmation of the needs met by the program." It tests college-bound high school seniors.

ACT, initiated by an agency of the State University of Iowa, is to be incorporated as an independent, non-profit agency.

Miss Pastetenbecker, a German girl who entered the contest, replied she measured 36-37-38.

Briscoe finally discovered she was measuring in centimeters. In inches that works out to 34-22-35.

Failure to Heed Traffic Signs Cause of Crashes

Motorists literally are driving themselves to death. "Too often they're ignoring traffic signs and signals, which are designed for their protection," Jack C. Trimble, head of the National Safety council's signs of life program, asserted today.

Trimble emphasized that the sole purpose of traffic signs, signals, pavement markings and other devices is to state highway-railroad intersection the law, to warn of hazards and to give assistance and protection to all street and highway users.

He cited these facts:

1. One out of 10 drivers in a fatal traffic accident fails to keep to the right of the center line.
2. One out of 7 ignores stop or warning signs, passes improperly or does not have right-of-way.
3. Three out of 10 drivers in fatal traffic accidents exceed speed limits or safe speeds.

Disobey Signs
Trimble said these and other facts on auto accidents, including those involving cars and trains, are contained in the annual report on the signs of life program by the council's railroad-highway traffic safety committee.

"Drivers," he asserted, "continue to get killed or hurt because too often they disobey, don't see, ignore or don't understand traffic signs, signals and pavement markings."

He said the signs of life program has been especially valuable in preventing highway-rail crossing accidents. "Steady education by the program, better crossing protection and improved enforcement of traffic laws — that and cooperation from drivers, of course — have combined to pull down the number of motor vehicle-train crashes," he said.

The causes of highway-rail accidents are coming up to the crossing too fast to stop, be-

Ike Designates U. S. Prayer Day
Newport, R.I. — President Eisenhower has designated Oct. 5 as a day of national prayer.

In a proclamation issued at the summer White House, he said Americans live in a good land where each citizen can enjoy the blessing of liberty. He added:

"It is not by our strength alone, nor by our own righteousness, that we have enjoyed the abundant gifts of our creator . . .

"In this time of testing we shall ever place our trust in the keeping of God's commandments, knowing that He who has brought us here requires justice and mercy in return.

"As we lift our thankful hearts to him we will see clearly the vision of the world that is meant to be and set our hearts resolutely toward the achievement of it."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individual H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Canadians Find Much to Criticize In American Life

Our Neighbors Complain About U. S. Morals, Foreign Policies

From The New York Herald Tribune
BY CARL T. ROWAN

"You Americans—you worship the buck more than anything," the man said. "You think we're a bunch of hicks. You think you can bring $10 in here today and take $10,000 out tomorrow. You're greedy."

"We resent being tied to your foreign policy," the woman said calmly. "(The late Secretary of State) Dulles took us to the brink with him so many times I almost had a nervous breakdown."

"Americans think they are so superior," said a pretty high school senior. "We felt sorry a free nation didn't get a satellite up before the Russians, but we were kind of glad that the United States didn't. The kids at my school sort of felt, 'Goody, Goody—that's one up on the superior Americans.'"

I heard these remarks recently, not in Cuba, Russia or China, but in our friendly neighboring country, Canada. They are but a sample of the caustic comments that have become commonplace in what a congressional committee two years ago called "an erosion in the traditionally excellent relationships between the United States and Canada."

This first article of a series on U. S.-Canadian relations is written by Carl T. Rowan, author, lecturer and prize-winning reporter on the staff of the Minneapolis Tribune. He has traveled extensively in Canada in recent months.

May be Helpful

We may learn from the criticisms of a friend something about the ingredients of the "Hate America" campaigns being waged in hostile lands.

How much of our international trouble arises from a natural resentment of "bigness?" Quite a bit, judging by Canadian opinions. Our northern neighbors say we Americans are power happy, too, in that we tend to ignore the "little guy" when important decisions must be made.

Not only have we taken Canada for granted, they say, but we often have made selfish decisions without regard for the undesirable consequences on Canada's well-being.

Question Morals

More disturbing, perhaps, are the things Canadians say about us that tend to express doubt as to the United States' rightful claim to world moral leadership.

I heard many Canadians speak of what they regard as "cultural and moral decay" in the United States—as evidenced by a high divorce rate, a shocking number of illegitimate babies, outbreaks of racial persecution and violence and such been capable of only reacting with distrust and suspicion toward Soviet proposals.

Too Excitable

Americans are more vulnerable to "anti-Communist hysteria," less responsible in the use of scare phrases like "fellow-traveler," "Communist-liner" and the sort, than person or family-to-family relationships, the Canadian is as friendly as ever.

Canadians feel that since they are almost helplessly ties to the foreign aid defense policies of the United States they have not only a right but an obligation to criticize and complain wherever it seems justified.

This should not be interpreted to mean that Canada has become an "enemy" of the United States. Americans will find that in person-to-person or family-to-family relationships, the Canadian is as friendly as ever. It is when the Canadian refers to this image of the composite American that opinions become harsh.

At a social gathering in Edmonton, Alberta, after several guests had run through a long list of stereotypes usually used to describe American tourists, the hostess explained:

"Understand now, we're not anti-American; we're just pro-Canadian."

What she meant was that to maintain national self-esteem, many Canadians have come to cherish anything Canadian that is superior to the United States version.

Thus criticism of a Canadian institution becomes palatable if it is couched in terms of a dig at the United States. An example of this is the remark by a Nova Scotia publisher: "We in Canada today have the second worst education system in the civilized world." Everyone knew by implication who is supposed to have the worst.

Show Frustration

Most of these gibes at the United States are merely a reflection of Canadian frustration over the fact that so much of Canadian life is dominated by the giant neighbor with which Canada shares a continent.

Many Canadians concede that the mass denigration of United States culture, education, morals and what-have-you is an expression of Canada's inferiority complex, its dependency on the United States in economic, defense and other matters.

State GOP Regrets Nixon-Rocky Chat

Impatience for Vice President To Take Over Party Leadership

BY JIM BARTELT
Post-Crescent News Service

Chicago — The Wisconsin delegation to the national Republican convention will be impatient for the vice president to take over party leadership.

Instead of summoning Rockefeller to Washington or meeting on "neutral" ground in Chicago, other state leaders worry that Rockefeller has been getting all of the convention headlines pending Nixon's arrival today for the convention.

Two Wisconsin Republicans were caught off guard by the Nixon decision to meet Sunday with Rockefeller. The two are Rep. John Byrnes, Green Bay, chairman of the GOP policy committee in the house, and Rep. Melvin Laird, Marshfield, co-chairman of the convention platform committee.

Byrnes described the Nixon-Rockefeller meeting in New York as an unfortunate development. "But Byrnes said he did not see anything in the published statement 'that was a Nixon compromise.'"

State Republicans here do not question that Nixon will be named to head the party with little trouble, but they are impatient for him to take formal command.

Two vice presidential candidates came calling Sunday night when the delegation gathered for the first buffet, but the meeting was organized for Byrnes vice presidential mention.

The two possibilities were Sen. Thruston Morton, Kentucky, national GOP chairman, and Steven Mitchell, secretary of labor.

John Cofrin, Green Bay, and Ed Allen, Door county party chairman, were busy distributing "Byrnes for Veep" buttons and hastily-printed sheets on Byrnes' congressional and personal background.

Ballot-Box Appeal

But the state delegation recognizes Nixon will doubtless pick his running mate on national ballot-box appeal.

Byrnes said his own choice would be Morton.

Most state opinion leaned toward Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations, because of the importance foreign affairs will play in the campaign. This choice would be accepted with scattered reluctance because

Five Drown in State Waters

Weekend Victims Include Three Young Children

By The Associated Press

Five persons drowned in Wisconsin waters during the weekend. The victims included two children who drowned in separate accidents Sunday.

Thomas J. Barry, 54, Chicago, drowned Sunday when he fell into Friendship lake near Friendship while fishing on the shore. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry.

Trudi Abel, 2, Milwaukee, drowned Sunday when she fell from a pier at Green lake about seven miles north of Elkhorn. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Abel.

Alice M. Baerwald, 24, Madison, drowned in Lake Monona at Madison Saturday night when she was thrown into the water after the motorboat in which she was riding struck a high wave. She was a secretary at the University of Wisconsin hospitals.

Rick Bina, 5, Milwaukee, drowned Saturday in a newly-built pond in Mukwonago park at Mukwonago. The boy's father, John Bina, found the body face down in 2 1/2 feet of water.

Joseph F. Judge, 65, of Milwaukee drowned early today when he slipped from a government pier while walking with two friends at McKinley beach.

Alfred Arnold, Right, Was Sworn in as Appleton's new fire chief Friday afternoon by City Clerk Elden Broehm. Arnold's appointment as permanent chief was made last week by the fire and police commission. He succeeds Paul A. Neumann, who died several weeks ago. Arnold has been a city fireman for 27 years.

Youth Killed In Cycle Crash

Lost Control, Hit Pole While Learning to Ride

Green Bay — Learning to drive a motorcycle proved fatal Sunday afternoon to Roland Dennis Williquette, 19, Howard, when he was thrown off the cycle and against a utility pole. Eight others died in weekend accidents, raising the 1960 toll to 431, 12 over 1959.

The youth was rushed to a Green Bay hospital after the 3:30 p.m. accident and underwent emergency surgery but he died about 4:45 p.m. The impact of his chest against the pole had done severe damage to his lung and his heart, causing extensive internal bleeding.

The death, ninth as a result of traffic accidents on Brown county roads this year, was caused by a mishap on County Trunk J south of Highway 41-141 in Howard. Roland reportedly was just learning to operate the motorcycle and had been driving it only a few minutes when the fatal accident occurred.

Find Rock

He went past the scene once and was passing a second time going southward when the cycle went out of control.

Two witnesses told county police that they saw the young man and the cycle hurtling through the air, but neither saw the start of the mishap or what caused the cycle to flip over. A patrolman found a rock with what appeared to be a fresh rubber tire mark lying on the blacktop pavement, raising the possibility that the cycle hit this.

The motorcycle is owned by Lawrence Carter, Green Bay.

AP Lists Other Deaths

Four-year-old Lynn Donna Hanson of Waukesha, was killed and her playmate injured Sunday when an automobile rolled from its parking space into a picnic area and struck the bench on which she was sitting.

Deputies said the owner of the automobile told them he parked next to a tavern and the car rolled away after he left it.

Kenneth R. Peters, 43, of West Allis was killed today when his car and a truck collided on Highway 45 about seven miles north of Antigo. His wife, Edna, was injured seriously.

Mrs. Ilah Klumbunda of Waukesha died Sunday night when her car hit a tree in Waukesha. Mrs. Klumbunda was in her 60s.

Daniel McGowan, 19, Lyndon Station, was killed Sunday in a crash on U.S. Highway 16 about nine miles west of Portage. Seven other persons were injured.

Floyd Kruzan, 21, Highbridge, was killed shortly after midnight Saturday in a two car crash on Highway 13 about two miles north of Melton in Ashland County.

Man, 23, Killed By Freight Train

Green Bay — Myron E. Swamp, 23, route 1, Oneida, into the Lawrence college music-drama center Sunday road track in western Brown county early Saturday afternoon. He was struck by a passing freight train after a "How much?" he asked.

"Ob, $1 or whatever you'd like to give," the sweet young parently having laid down the name and address, sur?" she replied. "And your there to rest the night before."

Discovery of the body was continued, as she filled out reported to the sheriff-traffic department at 12:45 p.m. Saturday after a railroad employee spotted it alongside the tracks as he passed the scene.

The accident took place on the Green Bay and Western tracks near County Trunk J in the vicinity of the Brown county golf course. The body had been there for about 10 hours, the investigation indicated, since the last train traveled through that area about 2:30 a.m.

Check Up on Social Security Records, Manager Suggests

"Are you credited for the social security taxes you caught within this period?" Manager Frank M. Donnich of the Appleton social security office, asks. Improper reporting of wages or self-employment income now may mean loss of benefits later, he explained.

Most people will need credit for several years work to qualify for payments when they retire. To make sure the record is right, a check every three years is recommended.

"It is much simpler to correct records if an error is caught within this period," Donnich said. However, he continued, it is better still to keep the record straight from the beginning. For example, those who work for wages should make certain their employers are reporting their wages correctly. To do this, the employer must have the worker's name and number exactly as they appear on his social security card.

A postcard form for checking one's social security record is available at the social security office, 401 S. Elm street.

2 Overcrowded 1-Room Schools To be Discussed

Residents of two 1-room school districts near Appleton will discuss at annual meetings tonight the question of what to do with overflow enrollments this fall.

Triangle school, west of the city, had as many as 40 students in its one room last year, and enrollment is growing. Students may be sent to Appleton, Twin Willows or Badger school, on a tuition basis this fall, Donald Pennington, district clerk, said. Tuition is highest in Appleton and lowest in Badger, he said.

At Speel school, east of the city, enrollment is increasing because parochial schools in Kimberly and Kaukauna, also place into a picnic area and over crowded, have decided not to have first grades this fall. The Speel school board is proposing that upper grades be sent to Kimberly public school, Clerk Richard De Bruin said.

Hearing Slated On Real Estate Brokers' Rule

Madison — The real estate brokers board has slated a Sept. 13 public hearing involving one of its administrative rules recently termed invalid by Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds.

The board announced through the state administrative register that the hearing would be held in Milwaukee. The rule allows real estate brokers to draft deeds, mortgages and contracts, option agreements, and notices of termination of tenancy and leases.

The attorney general, in a recent opinion, held that the documents must be drawn by lawyers. He indicated brokers continuing to draft them could be prosecuted for practicing law without a license.

The board said it planned to adopt a new rule dealing with documents connected with real estate transactions, incorporating points in Reynolds' opinion. This, it said, would clear the way for a test of the lawyer-broker differences in court.

Father Dempsey had been bothered for some months by a respiratory problem and in May asked to be relieved of his work as chairman of the department. He continued as a consultant for other faculty members and students.

Car Hits Pole; Power Cut Off

Electricity in the Twelve Corners area was cut off at about 12:30 a.m. Saturday when a car driven by Robert A. Keller, 40, of 1907 E. Frances street, left Highway 47 and struck a utility pole.

Keller was driving south on 47 when his car failed to round a curve near 47 and County Trunk A. A Wisconsin-Michigan Power company crew was called out to repair the broken lines.

Four in Family Die In Single-Engine Plane Crash in Pennsylvania

Washington, Pa. — A single-engine airplane crashed into a hillside Sunday near the western Pennsylvania community of Centerville, killing the four occupants, all members of a Maryland family.

Killed were Richard Callison, 46, of Rockville, Md., the pilot; his wife, Marcela, 49; and two daughters, Sally Ann, about 12, and Betsy Jane, 9. Two other daughters were home.

Federal aviation authority officials said the plane apparently ran out of gas because there were no signs of gas leakage and no fire occurred after the crash.

They said Callison apparently failed to guide the light craft to a safe landing because of a dense morning fog.

Three From Fox Cities Forfeit Fines, Costs At Sheriff's Office

Oshkosh — Three Fox Cities residents forfeited fines and costs last week in the Winnebago county sheriff's office for traffic offenses. They were:

the nation's pre-eminence to become overshadowed in such vital defense and military fields as missiles and conquest of space, for reasons of economy. They speak of restoration of U.S. superiority in all defense fields.

Economic Growth—Republicans pledge further growth which would be achieved by giving full reign to free enterprise, encouraged by broadly based tax reforms to foster job-making investments.

Easier Money Policies—Democrats would achieve "I will fight right here in such growth by setting up Chicago," if necessary, he said, to put across his views.

The platform group obviously charted a policy course and the terms set out in a manifesto missed by a wide margin the terms set out in a manifesto missed by a wide margin the terms set out in a manifesto missed by a wide margin.

It appeared the platform group is largely rejecting the new look of liberalism, that Rockefeller has hoped to fasten on the GOP. This was true even though many of Rockefeller's ideas have been embraced by Nixon, the party's expected presidential choice.

New Yorkers Back Rocky
The completed GOP platform seemed destined to be far more moderate than the one adopted by Democrats. Republicans argued, however, that their promises had more chance of attainment than what they described as the something-for-everybody pledge of the Democrats.

Rockefeller's big 96-member New York delegation, endorsing his stand, gave him a free ticket to carry a fight to the convention floor where any platform conflicts still remaining will have to be thrashed out.

Many party conservatives, after earlier complaining the Nixon-Rockefeller pact was a "sellout" and an attempt to dictate convention policies, decided meanwhile to accept the platform committee's work. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said he planned to protest.

Here is how Republican and Democratic platforms stack up on planks already approved by the GOP platform committee:

National Defense—Republicans promise to continue and improve present military and preparedness programs which they declare have kept the nation sufficiently powerful to meet communists' thrusts and its military might second to none. There is no price ceiling on America's security, they say.

Democrats, on the other hand, charge the Eisenhower administration has allowed showing the position of the Soviet fighter plane which Lodge claimed maneuvered the American craft from its course.

Lodge called the Soviet charges that the plane violated U.S.S.R. air space last July 1 a "complete fabrication" which must be dismissed as a poor attempt to cloak a wanton attack on a plane over international waters.

Lodge declared: "What actually happened was this: Before it (the plane) reached the point more than 50 miles north of Soviet Nos. at which it was scheduled to turn northeast, a Soviet fighter pressed in from the seaward side and tried to force the plane off its course and into Soviet territory."

"The Soviet fighter was successful in forcing our plane off its course and in delaying its planned turn to the northeast. It was not successful in forcing the plane into Soviet airspace. It caused our plane to make a detour. That detour is shown by the green line (on the chart). The prescribed course is Africa, the Middle East and shown by the black line."

"This astonishing and criminal fact is established beyond doubt by the evidence of our scientific devices denied Russia's intervention which followed the RB47 in affairs of newly independent through all the events I have mentioned as a form of subversion."

The Kentucky senator is one would be qualified for the presidency if it should be necessary to replace a possible vice for him to take over that office.

Lodge Favored

The betting favorite for the would not permit his name to be submitted to the convention as a possible presidential nomination. Even Rockefeller did not want to step into the vice could not find the nucleus that would be required for a successful draft for the top job with reporters in Washington. Nobody else in this convention declined to discuss his own could even smell its position for the spot except to himself.

say it will be a man who Rockefeller remained an "enigma" with his position up realistically to the dangers largely incompressible to the average delegate moving in the make believe world of tooting bands and shouting cohorts that precedes the dull routine of conventions.

From his subterranean position as a non-candidate for either place on the ticket, Rockefeller threatened to shoot off about the only missile that might enliven the prosaic confines of the international amphitheater where the party faithful nominated Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Although he wouldn't say it in as many words, the New York governor's complaint was directed at the heart of the Eisenhower administration's defense program.

The convention platform committee adopted language saying the Republicans have provided and will continue to provide "the defenses we need to protect our freedom." The plank promised efforts to improve defense and said "there is no price ceiling on national defense."

Rep. Glenard Lipscomb of California, chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the plank, said it was completed before Nixon and Rockefeller agreed on a statement of principles Friday night, and was not changed later.

This obviously wasn't enough for Rockefeller, who has said that the present level of outgo ought to be stepped up by $3 billion to provide an airborne alert, speed missile production and equip ground forces to cope with any brush fire wars that might break out.

"This plank does not face the position up realistically to the dangers

Preceding the formal presentation of the nine young women to North Shore Golf Club's membership, the young women, their escorts and guests dined on

son and Jane Baird. Saturday night's event was the 22nd edition of the traditional Assembly ball.

Nine Young Women Introduced At 22nd Annual Assembly Ball

Standing amidst a ballroom lined with people and decorated in green and yellow vines and flowers, Russell Flom, North Shore Golf club president, Saturday night introduced the nine young women who were presented to club members at the club's traditional Assembly Ball.

While the orchestra played "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," Mr. Flom made the introductions as the girls, on their fathers' arms, glided through the white and gold curtained archway, garlanded in green ivy.

Presentees

Presented were Miss Jane Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Baird, 137 S. Alton court, Miss Sally Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Cross, 810 E. Forest avenue, Neenah, Miss Carol Geisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Geisler, 848 Bayview road, Neenah, Miss Pamela McGee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Weldon McGee, 532 Arrowhead drive, Green Bay.

Miss Mary Reiersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Reiersen, 726 Congress place, Neenah, Miss Susan Rhyner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Rhyner, 314 Dayton street, Menasha; Miss Suzanne Schriber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus K. Schriber Jr., 100 Stoney Beach road, Oshkosh; Miss Leslie Shipman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Shipman, 630 Wheeler street, Neenah, and Miss Penny Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Simpson, 563 Belmont avenue, Neenah.

Preceding the presentation the girls, their escorts and guests dined on the club's porch at tables decorated with fern and baskets of yellow gladioli and orange tiger lilies. Ivy and greens were at either side.

After the 10 p.m. presentation the girls and their fathers circled the ballroom for the first dance. Then followed the traditional "rush" dance where the escorts of the young women cut in.

White Formal Gowns

The presentees, all June high school graduates, were attired in "debutante" white formal gowns of floor length for the occasion. Each girl carried a spray of yellow roses, cascading ivy and yellow daisies.

Miss Baird chose a silk organza gown detailed with a tiered skirt and fitted bodice. She was escorted by Leonard Coulson Slinger. A draped skirt and shirred bodice accented Miss Cross' taffeta dress. Her escort was Donald Pench III, Creve Coeur, Mo.

Wally Bergstrom, Neenah, was Miss Geisler's escort for the evening. She donned a strapless silk taffeta gown with molded tucked bodice, deep unpressed pleats. Escorting Miss McGee was Frank Hurney, Jr., Green Bay. She chose a gown of point d'esprit. A bouffant skirt, fitted bodice and cummerbund completed her costume.

Miss Reiersen was attired in a strapless gown of silk organza over taffeta, accented by an organdy bow at the back and deep inverted unpressed pleats. Her companion for the evening was Steve Den Dooven, Neenah. Miss Rhyner, escorted by Jim Rueckl, Menasha, chose a sheer nylon gown with short puff sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. A silk organza gown with a silver thread running through it, fitted bodice and full skirt was Miss Schriber's gown choice. She was escorted by Andrew Krance, Oshkosh.

Miss Leslie Shipman was attired in a draped Grecian chiffon ball gown, a Muntain original. Her escort was Paul Custer Olson, Appleton. A flower at the bodice highlighted Miss Simpson's strapless organza gown with a tiered skirt.

Pre-Ball Parties

Preceding the event, the young women were entertained at a pre-ball party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reiersen. Mr. and Mrs. Rhyner were co-hosts. Mr. and Mrs. Geisler entertained the group after the dance.

Parties before Saturday night's ball included a boat ride and cookout July 9 at the Schriber residence in Oshkosh. On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. McGee feted the young women at a luncheon in Green Bay. Mr. and Mrs. James Shipman entertained the girls and their guests at a brunch and swimming party Sunday morning at North Shore.

Arrangements for this year's ball were handled by the mothers of the young women. Invitations were issued by North Shore directors to club members. Mrs. Baird served as general chairman.

The nine young women presented Saturday night bring the total of presentees to be introduced to the North Shore club membership to 130. The Assembly ball is a traditional event at which club members' daughters who have reached their 16th birthday during the year are presented.

After their presentation, the young girls were joined on the dance floor by parents and friends.

At left, Jane Baird adjusted the flower on her father's lapel before the girls were formally presented. Miss Baird is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Baird. Her mother was general chairman of Saturday night's traditional ball. Below, the Misses Carol Geisler, Leslie Shipman and Sue Rhyner pose with their fathers, Carl R. Geisler, James J. Shipman and Roy C. Rhyner.

Dancing continued until 1 a.m. when the girls departed for a post-ball party at the Geislers.

Shower Held For Bride-Elect

Mrs. Jason Hanks, 819 W. Lawrence, Glendale, entertained the bride-elect, Miss Shirley Guthrie, 2229 N. Mason street, for a miscellaneous shower Thursday.

Miss Guthrie will be married Aug. 27 to John Nygren, son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. Nygren, 2229 N. Mason street.

Mayonnaise Jar Provides Rule For Helping Control Emotions

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I feel a little stupid writing in for advice. I'm not a teenager; I've been married and divorced, in fact.

The man I'm interested in is a captain in a very nice dining room. I'm a salad cook. His working Ann Landers clothes are tuxedos, so I thought at first I might have been carried away by the glamor. But that isn't it. Ann, I've seen him in an old sweater and he still looks good to me.

The trouble is I don't want to let my emotions get out of control. Your teenage pamphlets won't help, if you know what I mean. Do you have some advice for people in their late 20's?—Salad Cook

Dear Salad Cook: The directions are right on the mayonnaise jar. "Keep Cool—But Don't Freeze."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm the mother of a 10-year-old boy. I need some advice on what to tell this sensitive child.

His father had a nervous breakdown three weeks ago. He is now in a private mental hospital. For several months previous to his collapse he was alternately silent and then he'd go to the other extreme and shout and throw things.

When Allen would ask "What's the matter with Daddy?" I'd tell him "Daddy is terribly tired because he is working so hard for us."

Now that his father is gone Allen keeps asking where he phlet's won't help, if you know what I mean. Do you have some advice for people in their late 20's?—Salad Cook needs the rest. I can't keep up the pretense much longer. Please tell me how to handle this. I feel absolutely lost.—Heavy Heart.

Dear Salad Cook: The di-

Dear Heavy Heart: Tell Allen Daddy is no longer on vacation; that he became ill and had to go to a hospital.

Explain that Daddy loves him very much and is trying hard to get well soon so he can come home.

Children adjust to the unhappy truth far better than to the frosting-covered lie. And they are capable of understanding a great deal more than we give them credit for.

When children sense that adults are hiding something, their fears and anxieties multiply. And then there is always the risk that the youngster will learn the truth from an outsider. This would shake a child's confidence and add immeasurably to his problems.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 13. My sister who is 17 is jealous of me because I am prettier than she is.

Last night my sister had a boy-girl party and Mother told me I could say hello to the guests but then I had to go to my room or spend the night with my cousins. I made it plain they couldn't drive me out of my own house so I agreed to say hello and go upstairs.

Several of the best-looking fellows were very friendly to me and I could tell where they wanted me to stick around—so I did. After about 40 minutes my mother called me into the kitchen and told me to go to my room.

I think this was simply rotten and I wish you'd give them some advice on human rights and fairness.—Object of Jealousy

Dear Object: The advice is for you. A 13-year-old girl does not belong at her 17-year-old sister's boy-girl party. Your time will come. Wait.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Easy Waist Trimmers

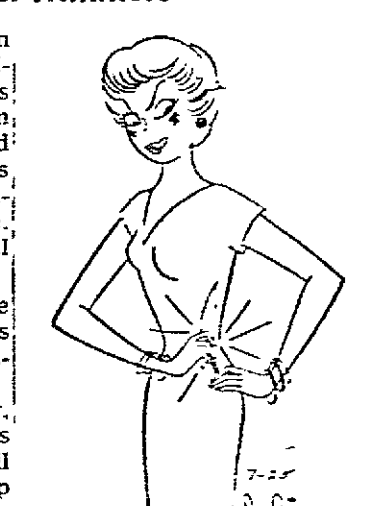

Would you like to lose an inch or two around your middle before fall? If so, now's the time to get started on some slimming exercises. And let nothing stay your efforts—neither heat, nor humidity nor lazy bones. Otherwise, your middle will be in a real muddle come September.

To spur you on, here are some of the most effortless routines on record for midriff slimming:

1. Lie back down on floor, with legs together and arms at sides. Simultaneously pull in stomach, fling arms up and back until touching floor at full extension, and stretch legs downward. Return arms to starting position, relax and repeat 20 times daily. Work each time for increased stretch in waist muscles.

2. Back down, stretch out straight on floor with arms at sides. Alternately pull in and relax abdominal muscles. Exhale as you pull in; inhale as you let go. Twenty times, twice daily.

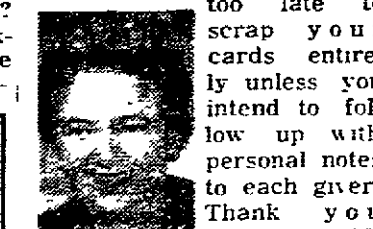

3. Turn on stomach, cradle head in hands. Quickly raise legs and torso, as high as possible; slowly return to floor. Repeat 10 to 20 times daily.

Note: Exercise two can be done whenever you stretch out to catch the sun or a nap, by the water's edge or just in the backyard.

To solve that riddle of extra inches around your mid-die, send today for my leaf-let, "Midriff Slimmers." It contains quick, easy reducing exercises for slimming diaphragm, waist and abdomen. Write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and five cents in coin to cover handling.

Paris Fashions Set By Jacques Griffe

Some suits were buttoned knee, was shown by Jacques from the neck to hem and of Griffe this morning in the cur-ten the buttons ran down one tam-raiser for the Paris fall side instead of being centered and winter fashion openings. The new bag skirts have a New notes were bag-backed harem look — with a differ-suit jackets and bag skirts ence. Even some coats are in bloused out above the knee the Cinderella's pumpkin and seamed in again at a shape slightly longer hemline.

Varied Fabrics — Warm tweeds thick furry less left where the designer woollens lace printed velvets found them. Modestly high heavy silk crepes and moires, day necklines went with the and even a fuzzy wool lace warm, sensible look for win-made up the range of winter fashions. Materials: Coats had shawl-collars or stand-up rounded gan the parade and these cuff collars, often in fur. Fur turned out to be Griffe's fav-borders and hems trimmed ored colors. Black and oyster many suits and coats. white came next in popular. There were high covered clothes and feather duster hats to go with everything, and gold veil birdcages for evening.

The black crepe dress, beloved by most women, showed up in dozens of versions, all of them deceptively simple.

What Griffe calls his long-zenge, or elongated diamond, bustline gets that shape from a shoulder to shoulder drape and downpointed seams. Formal "slipcovers" — loose chiffon sheaths slit up one side — went over fitted silk sheaths for cocktail and dinner time.

Ankle-Lenth Formals — Formal wear was mostly ankle-length and ball gowns have been cut down to size. They range from moderate gathered fullness to slim straight sheaths. Most décolletage is of the wide, shallow variety that just shows the shoulder blades. Some apron skirts are gathered onto little yokes curving down from the waistline.

The bag skirt showed up for evening, too, and even the bride, who traditionally ends the showing, wore it, with a little embroidered cone to hold her veil in place.

Filigree-fine embroidery trimmed the dressy numbers. Typical was a gold and rhinestone border tracery on a white satin brocade dinner suit. Romantic as a valentine, a black velvet ankle-length formal sported lace frills and a big white rose at cuff and hemline.

Many mannequins wore a dark-brown makeup. Whether this indicates that the designer advocates a winter tan or whether it was a leftover from summer was not explained.

Skyscraper Hats — "Take it off" may be the unanimous cry from the rear if women adopt this season's Paris hats.

The beehive shape has just moved over for the skyscraper, the pagoda, and the leaning tower of Pisa, all interpreted as feminine headgear.

In a group showing combining the talents of Paris hatmakers, hairdressers and some fashion houses, the new millinery styles were presented in the Eiffel Tower last night.

A spokeswoman said: "We consider the tower a symbol for our hats." She was right. And the new headgear goes on over a revolutionary new hairdo that is flapperish short, flat, and spit-curlled over the ear.

Church Delays Honeymoon of Young Couple

Miami, Fla. —(U)— The 16-year-old daughter of a wealthy Miami banker must wait until January before she can continue her honeymoon with the photographer's son who has been her sweetheart since grammar school days.

Priests of the Catholic parish to which Jeanne Sottile and Harry Walsh III, 18, both belong said the two may not have a church wedding for six months.

They eloped last week and were married in a civil ceremony. When they came home Friday, they expected to go to a Miami Beach hotel suite reserved by the groom's father.

But they were separated for the night and Saturday were taken to the church rectory by Jeanne's mother, Mrs. James Sottile, for a conference with a priest.

A spokesman for the Sottile family said later the six month delay "is a ruling of the parish when a couple has been married outside the church."

Young Walsh left late Saturday to assist his father on a 10-day tour during which the two will make television films to be used on the Dinah Shore and Pat Boone shows this fall. The Walshes' first stop was Chicago.

The senior Walsh said he would not object to the church's decree "if this is the usual procedure."

Routine play is to lead out the ace of spades and then lead another spade toward dummy. As you can see, this loses; East surely wins two spade tricks.

The correct play is to enter the South hand with a diamond and lead a low spade toward dummy. When West properly plays low, you finesse dummy's nine.

East wins with the jack of hold SA 8432, H-87, D-Q 10 spades and continues the 4 and C-8 62. What do you hearts. You ruff the third say? heart, lead a diamond to dummy, and lead another spade. The combined count is at most from dummy. 24 points, not enough for Which spade do you lead game.

Perhaps you would have nerve enough to pass the double of one notrump with the South hand. You would be right, for proper defense would collect a penalty of 300 points. But suppose you bid two spades and play the hand at that contract.

West opens the jack of clubs and the defenders promptly take three club tricks. East next leads the king of hearts, forcing out dummy's ace.

Kennedy Will Try To Ease Friction

Fight Looms Between Factions Of New York State Democrats

BY G. MILTON KELLY
Carmine G. Desapio, New York county Democratic chairman, on the one hand, and a self-styled reform group on the other.
The reform group is led by former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Thomas K. Finletter, a former secretary of the air force.
Wagner is caught in the middle of the fight.
Lehman has stated publicly, and in Kennedy's presence, that he wants to back the national ticket but demands the right to vote independently of the Desapio organization, which he calls "the machine."
Kennedy insists on a one-week in which Kennedy seeks to clear decks for the arrival of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the vice presidential nominee.
The conference ranked high in importance for this busy week in which Kennedy seeks to clear decks for the arrival of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the vice presidential nominee.

GOP Doubts Nixon Ability to Beat Kennedy

paratively little. The vice president's nomination is as sure as any nomination has ever been in American politics for a first term candidate. It appears to relate to the private conviction of hundreds of local party leaders that with Nixon the result will be doubtful, while with Rockefeller the party could win.
Some of this uneasiness is perhaps typical of conventions. Many politicians at the 1860 convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln felt they probably passed over their best man, Gov. Seward of New York. Some Democratic politicians at Los Angeles a fortnight ago were doubtful about the selection of Sen. John Kennedy, although there the reservations were in the opposite direction. Some Democrats there, Wisconsin included, felt they were choosing their most popular man, but not necessarily the best fitted one.
The rank and file Republicans here are sure that in Nixon the party offers one of the best prepared candidates for the presidency in the history of the nation.
More Votes
But the recurring and troubling thought is that Rockefeller could probably attract more votes and would be a better bet to retain control of the White House in a year when the party knows it has only an outside chance to gain in the house of representatives, and virtually none to take over the helm in the senate.
Perhaps this undercurrent keeps the Rockefeller volunteers hopeful about the "miracle" they cheerfully concede must happen to derail the Nixon bandwagon.
This realization also is steering the convention platform writers so close to the Democrats on many issues that the results are bound to a shock some of the traditionalists and conservatives in the party including those who form the bulwark of the organization in Wisconsin.

4-H Club Girls Halt Meetings In School Year

Home-on-the-Range, Wyo.

The six members of the Sweetwater Fashioners, a 4-H club of girls in the Sweetwater river ranch country, have given up holding meetings during the school year.

The reason: Dawn and Diane Wilson go to school at Saratoga, 110 miles southeast of here. Judy Perry attends classes in Rawlins, 55 miles southeast of here. Margula Parks goes to school in Casper, 95 miles northeast of here. Her sister, Sue Parks, goes to school at Jeffrey City, 12 miles east of here. And Jeannette Reid attends classes at Lander, 60 miles northwest of here.

McSweeney

Almost counted out after a losing race for lieutenant governor last winter, the 64-year-old Long stormed back into the political arena Saturday by running a close second in a field of three in his bid to unseat Rep. Harold McSweeney in Louisiana's eighth district.

Now the patriarch of the bomb squad searched the family that has dominated Louisiana politics for more than three decades says he'll building as a precaution.

A spokesman said only authorized personnel would be allowed in the building until the convention opened this morning.

Almost complete unofficial totals showed McSweeney had run about 3,700 votes ahead of Long. With 315 of 316 precincts counted, McSweeney had 29,284 votes to 25,128 for Long.

The Republicans also held a 162-162 split in the state's 335-member legislature. The turnout justified the nomination to oppose veteran publican leaders' fears that Democratic Sen. Allen J. Elwell of the state's 8,500 registered voters would cast the state's 2,110 precinct ballots.

On the House

Here It's Called a Beer Joint; In Munich, Famed Hofbrauhaus

BY CHARLES HOUSE

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Munich — At home you would call it a beer joint. Here, it is the Hofbrauhaus and you enter it only to observe the thing you have heard about the common folks of Bavaria.

House

The noise is almost incredible. The heat in the large hall is stifling. The odor of perspiration and beer is about equal in strength. And on this floor of the Hofbrauhaus, in this room, there are 800 people and a dance orchestra.
When you sit, you must sit at a big table with perhaps 10 other people and this does not seem very nice either, but you sit down and call for the only thing you can have—Hofbrau beer.

A matronly lady with halfback-shoulders appears with your order and that of others. She is carrying — you can't believe it, but she is — 10 full steins of beer in each hand and one more in the bend of each arm. But the mugs of beer are huge, containing one liter which is an extra large quart.

Can't Drink It All

You can't drink that much beer. You know it is impossible, so you laugh and you sip at it while you look around. But the beer is amazingly good, even to a tiny sweet flavor. But you know that you can't drink this much.

The people at your table raise their glasses to you and their grin. The noise in the huge hall is so great that it is hard to talk. But one of your neighbors is a student of geology at Heidelberg university. Another is a farmer. He wears a great, heavy suit of clothes of greenish color, popular with Bavarians.

He shouts something to you, but his accent is difficult and all you know is that he pointed to himself and said "house." You ask him in your best German if that is his name because it is yours, too. But he does not understand your kind of German.

'Gut, Gut!'

The geologist helps you out. "No, he is saying that he has just built himself a fine new house."

"Ah," you say, and you look at the farmer. "Gut, gut!" He beams with pride.

Far down the hall you happen to catch the eye of a jolly fellow. He raises his huge glass to drink you a friendly toast even though he cannot know you; even though he is too far away to recognize you as a foreigner and an American.

Across the room a gay blade climbs up on the table with both feet and he shouts the name of a song in less ask what a really top-drawn Bavarian beer drinker can put away.

"About 40 liters in a day," he says, "but this man would be drunk."

The Hofbrau Brewing company was founded sometime in the 12th century. One of the Bavarian kings, long ago, issued a rule which still stands — no Bavarian brewer may use in his beer anything except three ingredients: malt, hops and water. Whether it is the water or the hops or the malt or the proper combination of all three which makes the Bavarian beer so superior you don't know, but it is superb.

There are said to be official almost no fights in the Hofbrauhaus and this is a startling piece of news because of the close quarters and the copious amounts of beer being drunk and the number of it not at all.

Pueblo Canes to Join Convention

Chicago — A touch of old Indian lore and a touch of old Republican lore have reached the GOP national convention.

Thirty-two Pueblo Indians from New Mexico have brought 19 silver-headed mahogany canes to the sessions. The canes, now used as symbols of authority in ceremonies, were given to the Pueblos by the first Republican president, Abraham Lincoln, in 1863.

Far down the hall a man catches your eye and he lifts his glass to you and grins. Another man walks past and offers you a cigarette. Another gives you a friendly pat on the head as he goes by. Another puts his arm around your wife and laughs. Nobody is offended at this; it is customary to be friendly.

You flash your second stein of beer and you are amazed to realize that you have put down a half gallon and feel like a gay evening.

What you feel is best described in German, a word which Wisconsin knows — Gemuetlichkeit.

Spraying Upsets Pest Balance in Orchards

Specialist Conducts Research
On Control of Insects, Disease

Madison — What happens if insects and mites in three sections of an abandoned 3-acre orchard. He left one section unsprayed, sprayed another section with captain fungicide for disease control, and sprayed the third section with both DDT for insects and captain for diseases.

One result is an almost worthless crop—100 per cent damage to the apples. But the effect on the complex insect society of the orchard is interesting to watch, and may lead to better understanding of biological insect control and actions to be taken if and when orchard insects become resistant to the insecticides now used.

Earl Oatman, University of Wisconsin orchard insect control specialist, has set up a long-time research program to get information on insect "ecology" under various conditions. In this project, he observes insects and mites in three sections of an abandoned 3-acre orchard. He left one section unsprayed, sprayed another section with captain fungicide for disease control, and sprayed the third section with both DDT for insects and captain for diseases.

The unsprayed part of the orchard is a great deal different from the sprayed areas. Oatman has found during the first year of the study. Under "natural conditions" (no spray), an apple orchard is a complex community containing more than 100 species of insects and mites.

Spider Control — In areas sprayed with both DDT and captain, there were fewer species of insects and mites, but some kinds were much more numerous than in the other section.

For instance, he collected three times as many spiders in the unsprayed areas as in the DDT-captain area. This means control of other insects by spiders was harmed by the insecticide-fungicide spray.

But eye-spotted bud moths and red-banded leafrollers were more numerous in the DDT-captain plots and the captain plot than in the unsprayed area. Other species were reduced in the DDT-sprayed area.

And this reduction was extremely important, because apples in this area had only 17 per cent injury compared to the 100 per cent injury in the unsprayed part of the orchard. Apple maggots, plum curculios, and codling moths were responsible for most of the damage. The sprayed area had received a net-fall spray containing dieldrin to kill curculios.

DDT-captain had almost eliminated leafhoppers and leaf miners. Captain spray reduced the number of leafhoppers but provided more favorable conditions for leaf miners.

DDT-captain and captain plots contained more aphids than aphids than the unsprayed area. This was partly because the spray killed insects which normally prey upon aphids, Oatman says.

The experiment is just underway, Oatman says. Right now, the picture of what's happening is pretty cloudy. But it's clear enough to see that spraying upsets the complex insect and mite community in an orchard. More details about the nature of this upset will emerge as more data is gathered and analyzed in future years.

"Judge Luchsinger, my immediate predecessor, like his predecessor, Judge Hughes was a conscientious judge. He sincerely conducted this court with even-handed justice. He was always sympathetic with the litigants before this court."

Judge Cane cited the work of Judge Mueller and Justice of the Peace Floyd D. Atherton, who served as acting municipal judges during Luchsinger's long period of illness.

"Both of these men as loyal public servants with high personal respect for their fellow jurist took on the added duties of this court for many months."

"The did so without neglecting their own respective duties."

Bottles Decorated for Bazaar From Treasure Chest of Jewels

Neenah — Looking like the loot from a pirate's treasure chest, a small circular table in the Tony Winters' home at route 1, Neenah, has served as a cool, spacious workshop for the skilled bottle decorators. Covered with square, oblong, circular and almost every imaginable shape of bottle, the bar and storage counter tops show the colorful evidence of the summer project.

The women removed printing and polished the vessels before taking them to the chairman's home, where all the decorating was done. "It's a slow process because the heavy jewelry dries very slowly. Some of the bottles have taken an entire evening to complete," explained Mrs. Winters.

Looking at her tables, covered with designs cut in the glass, Mrs. Winters said, "We have almost enough jewelry here to go in to business."

Assisting Mrs. Winters are Mrs. F. A. Salm, Miss Sally Salm, Miss Jean Salm, Mrs. Willard Hogan, Mrs. Al Levance, Mrs. Ivaux Andersen, Mrs. Don Hassler and Mrs. Robert Yost.

Tiny bits of baubles have been glued to decorative bottles, filled with brilliant bubble bath, to be sold and used as prizes at St. Gabriel Catholic church's annual round-up, scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 28, at the Ravenshoe ballroom.

The basement playroom of the Winters' home at route 1, Neenah, has served as a workshop for the committee members this summer. Below are two of the bottles which will be sold or used as prizes at the bazaar. Sparkling jewels between rows of gold braid have been used to decorate the bottle at the right.

Kellet Yacht Wins ILYA 'A' Class Regatta

Robert Larson 3rd In Overall Points; Nodaway Host Club

Menasha — First place in the Inland Lakes Yachting association class A invitational regatta here over the weekend went to Bill Kellett's Winnefox. Robert "Gus" Larson of the host Nodaway club finished third with Bob Kimberly in fifth place. The big craft from six area clubs sailed in the races with 11 boats in competition. Friday afternoon's opening race was cancelled because of the storm while two races were sailed Saturday. Sunday morning the racers were virtually becalmed but brisk winds in the afternoon enabled the yachtsmen to complete the minimum of three races.

Kellett sailed his Winnefox to a first and a third in the first two races and Jerry Neumuller was skipper in the third race for a second place finish and a total of 744 points. The Concubine, skippered by Herman Nunne-

Knudson and a fielder's choice produced Green Bay's second inning run. Two errors, a walk, a sacrifice and Zich's hit brought about the three in the fourth.

DeVaall tripled to lead off the fifth and tallied on an infield out.

Shukoski led off Menasha's ninth with a walk. Phil Keller was safe on an error. Jim Koerner and Becker were outs but Bill Neubauer singled home Shukoski. Meier was out to end the game. The box score:

Town Honors Man Charged in 1925 With Darwinism

Dayton, Tenn. — This mountain town of 3,000 people turned back the clock 35 years Thurs. as it honored the man it convicted of teaching Darwin's theory of evolution in 1925.

John Thomas Scopes, now 60, was convicted under a still existent state law in a trial which brought together the masterly efforts of Clarence Darrow, in Scopes' defense, and William Jennings Bryan, a special prosecutor in a battle termed "science vs. religion."

"I had hoped the trial would accomplish more than it did," commented Scopes on his first visit here since the trial. "It was a circus. Calling it a 'monkey trial' was part of the circus."

The city was decked with flags and bunting today and a carnival atmosphere prevailed — as it did during the trial. Automobiles of the 1925 vintage lined the streets and styles of the decade were displayed in shop windows.

Scopes, who taught biology at a local high school, is now living in semi-retirement as a geologist at Shreveport, La. "If I had it all to do over again, I'd do exactly the same," he said.

He said what he actually taught was that all animal life progressed from one geological period to the next. What was the trial all about? A Dayton waitress put it this way: "Oh, some guy claimed we came from a monkey. A man named Darrow and another named Bryan got mad about it and they got into an argument and the whole thing broke up."

Cedar Rapids and Dodgers Triumph In Extra Innings

By The Associated Press
Extra-inning lightning enabled Cedar Rapids and Green Bay to win, as Three-I league-leading Fox Cities had its margin cut to 4½ games Sunday night.

Gene Johnson's homer in the thirteenth inning enabled the Braves to keep Des Moines on the skids, 5-4, before 2,847 fans. Cedar Rapids tied the score with two runs in the ninth, then went on to hand the Demons their twelfth loss in 14 games. The Braves have won five in a row.

Packers Cut 6 Rookies as Drills Begin

4 Other Players Have Left Camp Since Thursday

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay—The Green Bay Packer chapter, National Football league, officially launched its forty-third season at 9:30 a.m. today.

Fifty-eight players answered the opening bell, which really wasn't the starter. Coach Vince Lombardi had worked with the rookies since Friday and the veterans came out on their own over the weekend. But today's workout marked the official kick-off for the entire group. It was the second year for Lombardi and his aides—Phil Bengtson, defense; Norb Hecker, defense; Bill Austin, offense; "Red" Cochran, offense. Assisting during the training season this year is Bob Gilotti of the University of Colorado football staff.

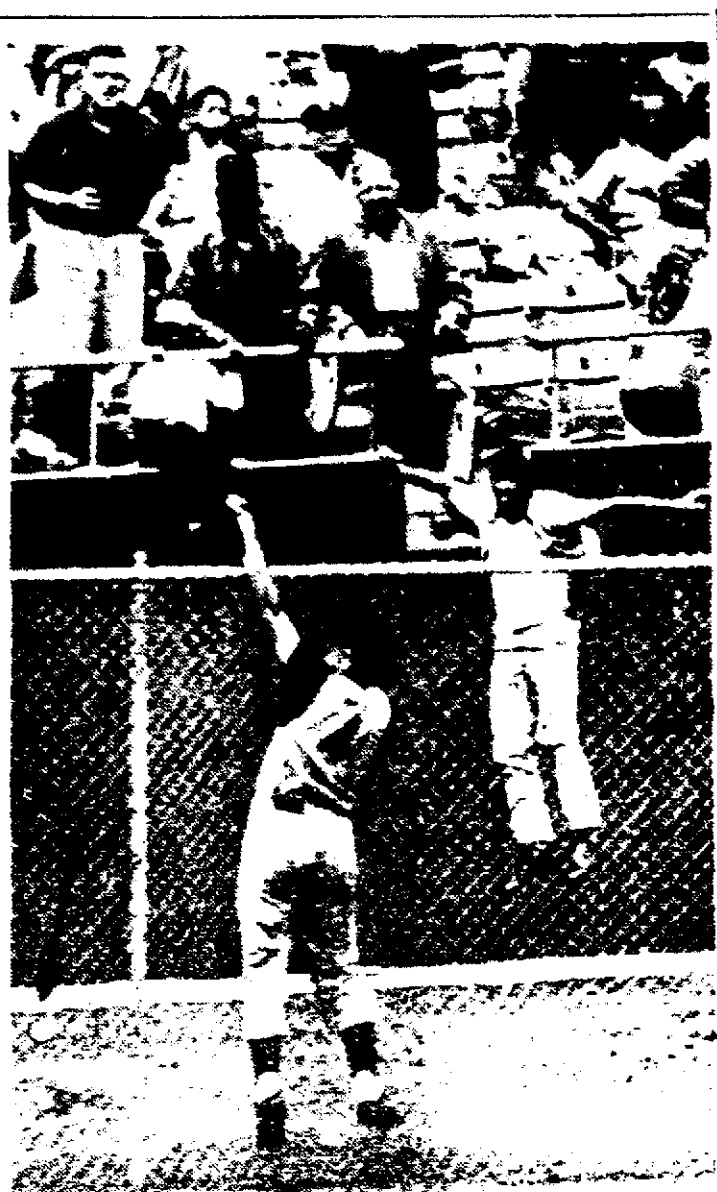

Six Players Go
Rookie camp came to a bawling close Sunday with a hot 1-hour scrimmage. Movies of the action brought about the dispatching of six players today, including Jim Ward, the no-college product who also tried out a year ago. Others to go were Roger Wypczynski, St. Norbert college tackle; halfback John Meroney of Guilford; halfback Bill Shippen, no college; tackle Marv Rader of Findlay; and tackle Harry Ball of Boston college.

One player failed to pass the physical—fullback Jim Hurd of Albion. Hurd was placed on the injured reserve and will undergo surgery to correct chronic knee trouble, thus placing him in working order for the 1961 season.

The camp, set up at St. Norbert college, now has 33 vet-

Dark Buhl

The Braves were idle today. They open a 3-game series against the Giants on the West coast Tuesday.

Milwaukee has now won nine of its last 11 games and is in sole possession of first place for the first time this year.

Buhl was engaged in a tight pitching duel with the Cubs' Jim Brewer (a pitcher for Burlington in the Three-I league in 1959), who was brought up from Houston last week, until Mel Roach doubled with one out in the ninth.

Logan was given an intentional walk by Brewer and Dark was called as a pinch-hitter. Al Spangler, running for Roach, stole third with Dark at bat and then Dark hit a sharp single into left field for the game's only run. The victory was Buhl's tenth of the season against three losses. Brewer took his second loss with no victories. Brewer gave up eight hits, walked two and struck out five batters.

Fodor Hurls 6-1 Win in Series Finale

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Fox Cities Foxes are in Des Moines for a doubleheader tonight, searching for the hitting zip which left their bats during a frustrating 6-game home stand.

Flashy Topeka right-hander Marv Fodor fired a 4-hitter at the Foxes Sunday night, winning, 6-1. Fodor, an 18-year-old who received a bonus in excess of $50,000 from Cincinnati for signing about 14 months ago, appeared to be worth every penny of it Sunday. The Foxes didn't get their first hit until the sixth and didn't score until "Boog" Powell kissed his eighth home run (his first at home) in the ninth.

The Foxes dropped four of the six games in their home stand, losing two of three to both Lincoln and Topeka.

Just 34 Hits
The Three-I league leaders were pacing the circuit in 3-2 batting after Tuesday's 3-2 loss to Lincoln but they totaled just 34 hits in the home stay. In 51 of the 57 innings played here last week, the Foxes were scoreless.

The Foxes' league lead was cut to 4½ games over Sioux City, which defeated Burlington, 10-2, Sunday.

Tonight, Manager Earl Weaver is sending Arne Thorsland (7-3) and Bob Cooper (0-0) against the Demons in the first of two doubleheaders in two nights.

In holding the Foxes hitless for five frames Sunday, Fodor exactly repeated his effort of June 4, during the Reds' last visit. He won that one, 12-2. Marv struck out four and walked six Sunday in building his record to 8-3. The Foxes now own just a

Chuck Symeon Sets Club Strikeout Record in Posting 3-0 Triumph; Ripken's 3-RBI Wallop Decisive

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

In most cases, the catcher is considered the pitcher's best friend because of his defensive skills and his knowledge of opposing batsmen.

But, Cal Ripken's "money" bat is yet another reason for his becoming the favorite of Fox Cities hurlers.

Last Saturday night—for the second time in four days—"Rip" supported a batterymate's shutout hurling with a game-winning, 3-RBI wallop.

Symeon, who allowed five hits (never more than one in an inning), whiffed at least one Red every frame. He struck out the side in two blazing innings—the fourth and fifth. Symeon now has knocked over 100 batters on strikes in 100 innings.

Starts Downfall
The first two Foxes were retired on the eighth inning by George McWilliams, who was keeping pace with Symeon in all-round effectiveness. Pete Ward's infield hit started Topeka's downfall. He chopped it down the first base line and beat Don Pavletich's throw to McWilliams.

Ward's speed was the deciding factor in that tide-turning play just as it had been in the first game when the sprinting third baseman beat out a big man of the Dodger staff.

Symeon Ripken

Ripken's base-clearing double in the bottom of the eighth enabled Chuck Symeon to win, 3-0, over Topeka, and gave the front-running Foxes a 50-50 night.

The Reds' Bob Campbell notched a 1-hit, 2-0 triumph in the 7-inning opener of a double-shout, doubleheader at Goodland field.

Last Wednesday night (or rather, early Thursday morning) Ripken had pummeled a 2-on homer in the fifteenth inning to put away a dramatic 3-0 victory.

Symeon, a 23-year-old, electrical engineering graduate of Notre Dame, engineered a tremendous mound performance in posting his first shutout and seventh win of the

Pirates Lose to Giants, 6-3, Drop Out of League Lead

By The Associated Press

For the first time since May 30, the National league has a new leader. Pittsburgh finally has given way to the charge of the Milwaukee Braves who have been chewing chunks out of the Pirate lead in recent days.

Just before the All-Star break, the Pirate lead measured 5½ games. The wise men blazing innings—the fourth and fifth. Symeon now has knocked over 100 batters on strikes in 100 innings.

Milwaukee closed the gap Sunday by whipping Chicago twice, 7-5 and 1-0. The Pirates, trailing, 6-0, scared San Francisco with three runs in the ninth and had Manager Tom Sheehan digging deep into his bullpen for three pitchers before the Giants finally nailed down a 6-3 victory.

Blazing Hot
Los Angeles, blazing hot with 29 consecutive innings of shutout pitching—27 against the Phillies—blanked the Phils again 9-0. Stan Williams, the third baseman beat out a big man of the Dodger staff.

Sunday's Results:

Kaukauna's Klubbers ran wild on the basepaths Sunday and romped to a 14-7 victory over visiting Appleton Valley Fair in the Fox River Valley Baseball league. The win moved the runnerup Klubbers within 2½ games of the idle league leader, Menasha.

The Klubbers counted in every inning but the fifth and seventh. They stole over a dozen bases on Mike Galligan, who volunteered to do the Valley Fair catching when the losers were short-handed.

Bob Roffers and Joe Van Linn toiled for Kaukauna, which was playing host to the FRVL makeup though it was Valley Fair's "home" game.

Allows 7 Runs
Roffers allowed all seven Valley Fair runs on seven hits in the first seven innings, fanning four and walking eight. He was taken out in the eighth without retiring a man and was credited with all five runs scored by the visitors in that inning.

Dick Wankey hurled the first seven innings for the losers and allowed 12 runs on 11 hits, but most of the runs off him were unearned. Harry Johnson finished, giving up two runs on four hits.

The game's only extra base blows were a 1-run double by Kaukauna's "Butch" Fahrenkrug in the eighth and a lead-off 2-bagger by Valley Fair's Dick Cornell in the fifth. Dick Mulry slapped three singles for Kaukauna.

The winners went on top to stay in a 1-run first inning. Phil Haas singled, stole second and scored from there on a passed ball. Valley Fair is now 3-10.

Symeon Gives Foxes Split In Twin Bill

fourth-inning bunt to deprive Campbell of a no-hitter.

Ward continued to show his flying spikes to the Reds as he stole second to put the tie-breaking run in scoring position. "Photti" Anthony then worked McWilliams for a free pass. With the left-handed swinging "Boog" Powell coming to bat, Topeka manager decided to lift the right-handed McWilliams in favor of portside Vic Davalillo.

The strategy boomeranged because Davalillo walked and Powell to fill the bases.

Ripken screeched a drive into right center field that sent Ward, Anthony and Powell scurrying across the plate and drew a hoisterous response to 1,078 happy fans.

Ends Drought
Ripken's double ended the Foxes' scoreless drought at 22 straight innings. Just as his homer against Lincoln had terminated a 17-inning drought in Thursday's "wee, small hours."

Symeon's previous high for whiffs was 11—which he had hit three times this season.

The season's top strikeout total in the Three-I league is 17—compiled by Lincoln's Al Brice against Sioux City. The league record of 18 was registered by Evansville's Bill Roland in 1953.

Campbell was the evening's first pitcher to be inspired by Kimberly's "Brothers of the Brush" to wield the whitewash brush. His 1-hitter (or more correctly, 1-bunter) gave the Topeka right-hander his first victory after three losses.

Walks 2 Batters

Ward's bunt down the third base line came after two were out in the fourth. The Foxes had only two other base runners—Anthony walked to lead off the second, and Bob Saverine walked to lead off the seventh. Only Saverine got as far as second, as the Foxes were blanked for the third time in 84 games.

Topeka staged a 2-out rally in the third to win it. Billy Joe Dasher singled to right. Pavlich doubled to left. Ray Vaughn hit a 3-2 pitch far to the left of Anthony. The second baseman knocked it down but couldn't make a play on it—both runners scoring.

It was the only time in six straight innings that Chance was unable to pitch out of a jam—but it was all Topeka needed.

Adding color to the doubleheader was a goodly representation of Kimberly fans decked out in "days of yore" garb to publicize the village's coming Golden Jubilee.

The snappy games were reeled off in 1:32 and 2:07, respectively.

Locker Room Quiet as Braves Take Lead

Chicago —P— The Milwaukee Braves are finally in first place in the National League pennant race and looking over their shoulders, but all they can see are the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Braves took over the league lead by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 7-5 and 1-0, while Pittsburgh dropped a 6-3 decision to San Francisco Sunday.

Sorenson Repeats as State Champ

Mary Beth Nienhaus Loses in Finals Of Junior Meet

Fond du Lac —P— Carol Sorenson of Janesville, possessing a veteran's poise and skill at 17, is the women's golf champion of Wisconsin for another year—perhaps for many more.

Two down at the end of the first nine holes Saturday, the blonde schoolgirl came back to defeat Mrs. Polly Erickson of Madison, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final match at South Hills before some 1,000 spectators.

Mrs. Erickson, 31-year-old Madison city champion and wife of the University of Wisconsin basketball coach, was four down after 20 holes and then staged an uphill battle to narrow the margin to one hole on the thirty-fourth.

Ends On 35th
The match ended on the thirty-fifth when Mrs. Erickson, a former national collegiate finalist, three-purged for a bogey five and Miss Sorenson won on a par four.

Miss Sorenson scored eagles twice on the fourteenth hole.

For the 35 holes Miss Sorenson was even par while Mrs. Erickson was nine over. Women's par is 37-38-75.

Joan Cavigan of Waukesha retained her junior title with a 10 and 9 conquest of Appleton's Mary Beth Nienhaus in the 36-hole final.

MackKay Beats Bartzen, Wins 'Clay' Crown

Mrs. Knode Wins Women's Crown For Fourth Time

Chicago —P— Barry MacKay, at the peak of his game after winning the National Clay Courts Tennis title, today headed the U.S. Davis Cup team toward Mexico.

The 4-man squad of MacKay, Bernard "Tut" Bartzen, Chuck McKinley and Earl Buchholz, are to arrive in the Mexican capital tonight.

They will have nearly two weeks to get acclimated to the high altitude before opening the second round of American Zone Davis cup competition, which will be played on clay courts.

The 24-year-old MacKay never was sharper in hammering down the mechanical Bartzen Sunday, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-0, in the finals.

Best Around
Bartzen, 32, noted as the best clay courts player around, was deprived of his third straight National Clay Courts title by the heavy hitting MacKay, who scored 13 service aces in the 1-hour, 38-minute match.

The women's title went to 35-year-old Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode for the fourth time. The 1951, 1955, 1958 champion defeated 19-year-old Gwyn Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio, 6-3, 6-3. Mrs. Head said she now plans to retire from major competition.

Was Coach
Dressen should know something about the Los Angeles club since he was a coach with the world champions last year before taking over the Braves.

The Braves have won nine of their last 11 games while Crandall and Mathews finally have come to life at bat. Crandall, lifted to the second spot in the batting order, has hit a solid .350 since the All-Star games while Mathews is finding the home run range.

More important has been the work of Spahn and Buhl. Spahn has won six of his last seven decisions and is 11-6 for the season. Buhl, who is 7-1 since May 26, has won five of six decisions during the last 10 games.

They saw Mickey Wright drop a 2-stroke halfway lead Saturday in losing the National Women's Open Golf tournament at the 6,137-yard, par-72 Worcester Country club course.

The winner, Betsy Rawls of Spartansburg, S. C., was so far off the pace. However, she overcame a 7-stroke lead since May 26, has won five of six decisions during the last 10 games.

For Betsy, it was an understudy who has worked as a starter and reliever, is 10-5, giving the Braves a solid trio which has accounted for 31 of the 32 triumphs.

Czech Families Request Asylum

Copenhagen, Denmark — A Czech couple with two sons jumped overboard from an East German ferry in the Baltic port of Gedser today in the same way another Czech family of five defected Sunday.

The ferry, out of Warnemunde, entered Gedser harbor this morning, a man and woman, each carrying a boy, one 5 and one 8, jumped overboard and began swimming. A pilot boat pulled them ahead. Taken to a hospital, they said they would ask for political asylum in Denmark. Police withheld their names but it is understood the man is a professor in chemistry at the University of Prague.

The five who jumped Sunday, and also sought political asylum, were a Prague engineer; his wife, a scientist; their sons, 4 and 6, and the wife's mother, 62.

Heavy Rain Reported in Dakotas

Up to 4 inches of rain fell in parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Virginia early today while lesser amounts were recorded in thunderstorm bands across the northern plains, central Atlantic coast and southern Rockies.

Elsewhere over the country skies were clear to partly cloudy.

Appleton enjoyed one of the best weekends of the summer with a high Sunday of 85 degrees. There was no precipitation here.

Increasing humidity and continued warm weather in the west built up the potential for rainfall today in timber-dry forests of the Pacific northwest and northern Rockies.

Temperatures were warmer in the northern Pacific coast states and in most of the rest of the nation. Somewhat cooler readings were reported in the central Pacific coast states upper Mississippi valley and northern plains.

Shares Fail To Hold Gains

More Fractional Losses Than Rises On N. Y. Exchange

New York — The stock market failed to hold a slight rise and went into another decline early this afternoon. Trading was slow.

Losses of fractions to about a point outnumbered an array of small gains.

The market was a bit ahead on balance as the session started but there was no strong leadership and it wasn't long before the list showed more minus than plus signs.

A continuation of spotty earnings reports for the second quarter, the drift of steel production in typical summer doldrums, a reported slow-up in copper demand, and the uncertain international situation were factors.

Steels, autos, rails, tobacco, and mail order-retails were among losers. Chemicals, aircrafts, and electronics were mixed.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.41 to 606.46.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 to 213.70 with the industrials off .70, the rails up .20 and the utilities down .10.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U.S. government bonds were about unchanged.

American Can Sales, Profit Under 1959

Chairman Attributes Drop to Inventories, Cool Weather

Second quarter sales of the American Can company, the nation's largest can manufacturer, were "disappointing," William Stolk, chairman, stated in New York.

This has prompted the company to request steel mills to slow shipment of tin plate to American Can's plants, he said.

For the June quarter, he said, American Can expects to report sales and earnings below last year's second quarter sales of $283,409,408 and net return of $13,650,894. In the initial quarter this year net fell to $6,233,011. Marathon division showed gains.

Confusing Outlook In an interview Stolk also reported that the outlook for the remainder of 1960 was "confusing" although "he doesn't see any reason" why the company should not reach its 1960 goal of exceeding last year's net of $40,890,769.

As to first half sales of cans, which account for about 70 per cent of his company's volume, Stolk said, "The volume just hasn't been there."

Adverse market conditions, he explained, are the result of high customer inventories and cool, dry weather this spring and summer.

Held Down Sales Lower than normal temperatures, he said, have held down sales of cans for beer and soft drinks. He also claimed the cool weather will be responsible for a late and smaller pea crop and corn pack.

"Competition between different materials is terrific. It isn't only foreign competition that the steel boys should be concerned about. They should be worried about other materials right here in the U.S.," Stolk observed. He cited plastic, aluminum and paper containers as having great promise in the future.

Stolk said the company's Marathon division, which operates pulp, paper and paperboard mills, and the Dixie cup division have shown sales gains this year from 1959 levels.

Search for Party Leads Appleton Youth to Mishap

Wayne Chapman, 20, of 920 W. Grant street received a deep cut on the back of his head when he fell or was knocked off a porch at 2:45 a.m. Saturday while looking for a party on E. College avenue.

Chapman told Appleton police that he and a companion had been informed there was a party on College avenue and were looking for it when the accident took place.

He said he went up to the porch to check a house and someone hit him, but he was not sure who. Chapman was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by his companion, treated and released.

7th Chinese Rich Man Is Kidnaped

Singapore — P — Another Singapore Chinese millionaire has been kidnaped, the seventh reported this year. There may have been others whose families did not report the abductions, fearing retaliation from the kidnappers.

Ng Fong Soon, a prominent rubber merchant, was driving to his rubber estate in the neighboring Malayan state of Johore last Thursday when four armed men in a car cordoned his car to the side of the road, bound his chauffeur and sped off with Ng.

Ng's family said he was still missing today but refused to say whether it had received a demand for ransom. The last millionaire kidnaped reportedly paid off the equivalent of $50,000.
